

Pitching In

FORT PLAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Two Air Force recruiters signed Guy Beam's 19-year-old son off the farm right at haying time.

Then the recruiters, Sgts. John V. Weingarden and George Goff, volunteered to fill Beam's manpower gap by swinging pitchforks, milking cows and painting farm buildings themselves for the next three or four weeks.

The crisis developed when an opening came up for Beam's son Paul in an Air Force mechanics school.

In order to take advantage of the opening, Paul had to sign up right away.

"It all came on so sudden I didn't have time to think of anything," said the elder Beam. "I told the sergeants I had counted on Paul to help me get the hayin' done."

Weingarden generously volunteered his own and Goff's services.

Goff Surprised

Though taken aback, Goff agreed to go along with the idea.

"My wife thinks I'm nuts," said Goff, 34, who comes from Pawtucket, R. I. "But she's getting into the act too—she's going to drive a tractor."

Goff said he had never set foot on a farm before.

Weingarden, 35, of Albany, N.Y., said he had a little experience from minor farm chores.

Beam, 53, runs a 227-acre spread and has 42 milch cows. He expects to lay in about 3,000 bales of hay with the help of the two Air Force sergeants.

"It'll take about three to four weeks so long as it's dry and the weather holds up," Beam said.

And Paul? He's down at the Lackland Air Force Base in Texas taking basic training prior to going to the mechanics school.

Tarr Gives Four-Point Exemption Guideline

Objector Ruling Alters Rights of Draftees; July 1 Set for Lottery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr spelled out today four guidelines for local draft boards to follow in applying Monday's Supreme Court decision broadening the grounds for conscientious objection.

Tarr also announced, in a news conference, that the new lottery to assign draft sequence numbers to men who turn 19 by the end of this year will be held July 1.

Under Monday's court decision, Tarr said, draft boards must judge whether to grant conscientious objector status to men whose beliefs do not fit the traditional concept of "religious."

In the next few days, Tarr said, he will send local boards these guidelines for granting conscientious objector status:

— "The man's belief must be sincere."

All Wars

— "The man must be opposed to war in all forms. This decision does not open the door to exemption for opposition to a particular war."

— "It must be something more than a personal moral code. He needs to have taken into account the thoughts of other wise men; he needs to have consulted some system of belief."

— "His belief needs to be the result of some rigorous kind of training."

Tarr said this was not necessarily how the guidelines would appear in their final form because he has not yet received a full analysis of the court's decision from Selective Service lawyers. He said this was his own interpretation of the court's decision.

Tarr said he thought the decision would increase the workload of local draft boards and appeal boards because some men who previously thought themselves unqualified for conscientious objector status might now seek it.

But he declined to estimate what impact, if any, the ruling might have on the draft operation in general, on resistance to the draft, and on attitudes toward the Vietnam war.

Increase Workload

Tarr said, however, that the decision was not likely to "open the floodgates" for unlimited claims of conscientious objection, in effect making each man the judge of whether he should serve.

Rigorous Training

"It will be difficult," he said, "for people to profess sincerity when there is no sincerity. It will be difficult to profess rigorous training and belief for someone who doesn't even take the troubles of looking up the footnotes."

Tarr conceded that such standards give an advantage to well-educated people who can quote philosophers and point to college courses in support of their claims, but he said this was always the case in conscientious objection decisions.

Tarr said he was "somewhat surprised" by Monday's decision.

"The thing that worries me," he said, "is the difficult decisions that have to be made by local boards."

On the surface, the decision seemed to make little change in existing guidelines, but Selective Service spokesmen said they had no statistics on the grounds claimed by conscientious objectors and thus no way to measure the effects of subtle policy shifts.

Religious Tradition

Draft law provides for exemption from military service of men who "by reason of religious training and belief" oppose participation "in war in any form."

In 1965, the Supreme Court—in the landmark United States vs. Seeger case—ruled that an objector need not believe in the "traditional concept of God, but only in some overriding principle holding a similar place in his life."

On Monday, the high court reversed the conviction of Elliott A. Welsh II, who had refused military induction on grounds of his belief "that human life is valuable in and of itself . . . I will not injure or kill another human being."

Citing a lower court finding, that Welsh held his beliefs "with the strength of more traditional religious convictions," the court decided he was entitled to conscientious objector status according to the Seeger principle.

Individual Conscience

The court's Monday decision concluded the law permits exemption of those "whose consciences, spurred by deeply held moral, ethical, or religious beliefs, would give them no rest or peace if they allowed themselves to become a part of an instrument of war."

The court decision appeared to give those seeking conscientious objector status more leeway to defend their claims, for it accepted Welsh's arguments based on "political, sociological or philosophical views."

The law, as written, specifically excluded those as grounds of conscientious objection.

The Supreme Court, however, said that clause does not rule out people with strong opinions about such matters, as long as their pacifist views are held "with religious" fervor, as required by the Seeger decision.

Objective Test

In 1965, the court suggested that its new guideline—belief similar in strength to traditional religion—would provide a test "simple of application . . . essentially an objective one."

For the past five years, however, Selective Service—the agency whose 4,087 local draft boards actually have to make those decisions month by month—has been casting about for some way to measure the strength of an individual's personal beliefs.

Tarr, who became draft director last April, said one of his first goals would be to make draft policies, especially on conscientious objection, more uniform in their application by these thousands of boards.

He told an inter-religious meeting on conscientious objection he would not mind even seeing the concept broadened—some objectors seek exemption on grounds of moral objections to a particular war, rather than war in general.

Human, Machine Error Blamed in Apollo Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outstanding performance on the the oxygen tank was completed part of the crew and the ground control team which supported them.

A spokesman for North American said, "We certainly would not disagree with the findings of the board," but declined comment on specific conclusions until company officials had time to study the report.

Work With NASA
"If there are deficiencies in the design of our system," the spokesman added, "we'll do everything we can to work with NASA and correct them."

The board recommended several design changes for future flights, including the removal of electrical components and combustible materials from inside the oxygen tanks and rigorous testing, checking and qualification of the redesigned systems.

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, NASA administrator, said the agency would study the recommendations and decide within a few weeks what changes to make.

"We will not fly Apollo 14 to the moon until we are confident that we have done everything necessary to eliminate the conditions that caused or contributed to the problem on Apollo 13," Paine said.

December Launch
Edgar M. Cortright, chairman of the eight-member board which prepared the 914-page report, was asked if he thought the recommendations would permit a December launch of Apollo 14.

"My own view is that it will be a strenuous schedule, but they've been met before," he replied.

The board said the chain of events leading to the April 13 explosion started at the Beach plant in Boulder, Colo., when Behrent was a member of the HHT unit of the 2nd Squadron, 1st Cavalry, 1st Regiment of Dragons.

In a letter written to his parents the day before he was shot Behrent described the unit as aiding Vietnamese villagers.

West Graduate
He joined the Army July 30, 1968 after graduating from Appleton High School West.

He received basic training at Ft. Campbell, Ky., and training as a medic at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. On March 23 he was transferred to Vietnam.

Survivors are his parents, two brothers, a sister and grandparents.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Wichmann Funeral Home.

Also confirmed Monday were New York lawyer Samuel R. Pierce Jr. as general counsel of the Treasury Department and Yale University professor Edward F. Zigler as chief of HEW's children's bureau.

American Newsmen Freed From Viet Cong Captivity

SAIGON (AP) — Three American correspondents captured last month by the Viet Cong in Cambodia have been released.

They are Richard B. Dudman of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Elizabeth Pond of the Christian Science Monitor and Michael D. Morrow of Dispatch, Inc.

Dudman said they were released on Monday night. They were taken captive May 7.

"We're safe and healthy and in good shape," Dudman said tonight.

He added that he had asked their captors about the fate of some 20 other newsmen captured by Communist command troops in Cambodia and missing since April 3.

He said "we received no reply," and that neither he, Miss

Pond nor Morrow saw any of the missing newsmen while they were in captivity.

Dudman spoke on the telephone from Miss Pond's apartment in Saigon, where the trio arrived earlier today after hitchhiking in from the Cambodian border.

"We were released last night about 11 o'clock in Cambodia, on a stretch of Highway 1 that is controlled at night by the Cambodian United National Front," he said. "Then we hitchhiked into Saigon with a South Vietnamese convey returning from Phnom Penh."

He said several interrogators told the trio after their capture that they were suspected of being American government personnel or possibly agents of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Once the trio's credentials as newspaper correspondents were established, he said, they came to be considered "good people."

Army Prisons Studied

Are the Unfit Being Drafted?

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local draft boards concerned with filling their monthly quotas often draft physically handicapped and mentally disturbed youths who are unfit for military service, according to a civilian panel.

The panel, appointed to study the Army prison system and composed of six noted penologists, said it found many draftees in Army stockades "who were clearly not fitted for military service."

"The committee is well aware of the fact that some local boards, having trouble filling their quotas, draft youth with physical and mental inadequacies, and sometimes with severe personality and character defects that doom them to almost certain failure in the Army."

No Totals

No specific figures were given on how many young men might be in this category.

In its report, released Monday by the Pentagon, the panel recommended the Army concentrate on rapidly identifying the unfit and unsuitable and discharging them before they get into trouble.

The panel said stockade prisoners who were drafted make up about 36 per cent of the total Army prison population of about 7,000. Draftees constitute 54 per cent of the Army.

The great majority—between 80 to 90 per cent—of Army prisoners are charged or convicted of being absent without leave, the panel said. Of these, many were unstable and unable to withstand the tensions of military life.

Variety of Misfits

Other stockade prisoners included "a great variety of physical, mental and emotional misfits, sex deviants, drug addicts and others who were clearly unfit for military service," the panel reported in its 133-page report to Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

The report, listing 61 specific recommendations for prison reform, noted prisoners who need medical or psychiatric help have trouble getting it because none of the Army's 23 stockades have hospital wards. And it said few post hospitals have separate wards and are thus reluctant to treat stockade inmates.

The panel called the Army's stockades outdated and overcrowded and run by officers and enlisted men with little or no training in penology.

It also cited a lack of programs to handle, train and rehabilitate prisoners for the future.

In releasing the report, the Army noted it has begun training 2,000 specialists in a new penology course and plans to spend $8 million for new stockade construction at four Army posts.

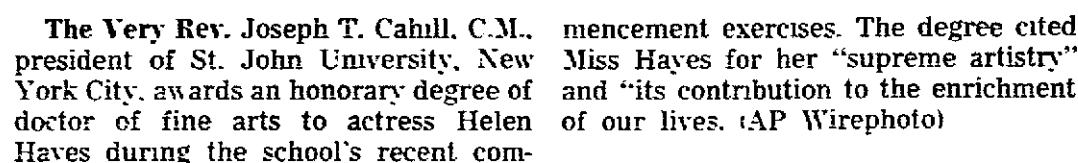

Richardson Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed Undersecretary of State Elliott L. Richardson as the next secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to succeed Robert H. Finch, who is becoming a special counselor to President Nixon.

Also confirmed Monday were New York lawyer Samuel R. Pierce Jr. as general counsel of the Treasury Department and Yale University professor Edward F. Zigler as chief of HEW's children's bureau.

Theater's resident accompanist, will play the musical scores for the auditions.

It's a great show and Jingro hopes it will be as successful as Birder's previous productions, "Camelot," "The Sound of Music," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and last summer's sensational "Mame."

Jingro notes that Marcus Theaters in the Valley have taken to the summer slogan "G Movies Can Be Fun for Everyone." It's another try at the so-called General movie category, which many fans automatically assume is meant only for children.

This is a mistake, you movie fans, because the G for general category simply means that everyone from gramps down to young fry Johnny and Susie can enjoy them. For instance, "Hello Dolly!" with Barbara Streisand and Walter Mathau opens June 24 at Cinema 14. . . . Disney's "Sleeping Beauty" starts Wednesday at the Vikings and "The Boatniks," the Disney comedy as funny as his "The Love Bug" hit and similar in theme, opens there July 8 "Airport," the colorful "Paint Your Wagon" and "Patton" are among the many new movies which will vie in popularity with the whimsical "Puffnstuff," "Benath the Planet of the Apes," "The Out-of-Towners" and "Bush Baby."

Christ Child Camp: A Place for Miracles

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

PINE LAKE — The pine shaded campgrounds were hushed on Sunday until 61 special campers laden with gear began tumbling from their parents' cars.

The measure of the next six days was a swell of hand clapping and running about as the boys and girls greeted old friends and hugged new ones. It was the first of six days of a special camp — Christ Child Camp for trainable children, ages nine through 20.

In the twinkling of an eye, they were swooped up by their 45 high school and college counselors and taken to their nine cabins — which would be "home" for the next six days. These new abodes had names like Spruce, Norway, Tamarack, Juniper, Fir, Scotch, Sequoia and the boys' dorm, better known as Alcatraz.

There was the customary gear, visible to the casual observer, duffle bags, sleeping bags, a favorite cap, extra shoes and tops. But stowed away in their ditty bags — both campers and counselors — were some special things which would be brought out as the camp activities progressed, things like: a special brand of "try," "concentration," and love.

Little Miracles Happen

This camp, like its other five previous camps, brings about two remarkable changes, little miracles, if you like, in these children who are forever childlike.

Before your eyes, you will see a child change his or her tune from "I can't" to "can do." This is not a miracle of chance, it is brought about by hours of hard work, encouragement and putting together everything you possess to work for you. The miracle workers are the Fox Valley high school and college students who have a special kind of patience, forbearance and skill in working tirelessly with these children.

The second change is the evident joy of accomplishment, to the applause of their peers — and they share it with big grins and squeals of delight.

It is real. One little nine year old girl, her first year at camp, had difficulty walking hand-in-hand with her pretty counselor during the first two days of camp. Can it be the same little girl on Thursday who literally romps to the water's edge, dips her toe and walks out into the water up to her knees? She wets her tummy, like the others, squats and lets the world know, "I did it, I did it." Up to that point she had favored her fellow campers only with a reluctant silence.

Walking to Running

In the early morning cool, you marvel as you watch boys winding up their enthusiasm for the volley ball game. Look who's make ready for the delivery — is it the same shy boy who peeked out from behind the big pine tree on Monday? Whoops — a good one just went over the net and running to return it — is a big handsome lad. Yes, I said running, and it's the same boy who concentrated on walking fast on Tuesday.

"The effort these kids put forward is immeasurable," observes Al Goerlitz, director. "They have to concentrate to skip like that during the first few days — but listen now, is that 'rhubarb' great?"

About that time I was approached by a smiling charmer — "Can't tell the campers from the counselors, can you?" he queried. "That's the reason for the sailor caps."

It doesn't have to be a physical endurance contest, like this year's first track meet, or volley ball, or diving. I watched little nine year old Jody — as his counselor took his hand and traced lines on a piece of paper. Before too long Jody was holding the drawing pencil himself, sticking out his tongue and showing amazement that a picture grew before his very eyes.

Proud of Drawing

"I did it, I can, I can," he whispered with disbelief.

Or, how about those boys painting their own conception of Indians on the rocks they had gathered earlier in the day. The little towhead, with the laughing eyes, held up his "warrior" for everyone to see. He was justly proud.

Norway cabin was quiet as little Jan smoothed back the bottom of her colorful sleeping bag on the bunk. Her eyes were bright as she plumped the pillow.

So, say you, doesn't anyone do this? This is a first for Jan and it is rewarding because within a few hours HER cabin will receive the coveted "Hilda" award for the day. Norway has been chosen as the neatest, brightest, cleanest cabin on the grounds.

The weather for Christ Child Camp this year — it has been beautiful. For counselor Dave Burke, only one little cloud has floated across the scene — "Big Dave isn't here this year and it doesn't seem the same without him."

"Big Dave," also known as smiling Dave, is 21 this year and he must wait for the fall camp. It was at Christ Child Camp he learned to walk and run and his smile last year attested to the miracle of his own courage and endurance.

Christ Child Camp is supported through the community effort of civic and service organizations — but the heart is to be found in the volunteer teen-age counselors and the children.

Saleswoman Of the Year Named

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. Former Miss America Marilyn Van Debur, now a corporate consultant and one of the nation's most sought-after speakers at management conclaves, has been singled out by the Direct Selling Association (DSA) to receive a special award as Saleswoman of the Year for her work in sales motivation. The award will be presented to Miss Van Debur during the DSA annual meeting this week at the Broadmoor Hotel. The award, which cites Miss Van Debur for her "personal and professional dedication to promoting salesmanship as a rewarding way of life," was presented during a session at which she was guest speaker before some 300 sales executives. The DSA is a national trade association representing the country's leading manufacturers and distributors of products sold directly to the consumer in the home. Since her reign as Miss America, Miss Van Debur has become well known as a motivational speaker and lecturer before such groups as the National Bankers Association, the Institute of Broadcasting Financial Management and the General Federation of Women's Clubs. A graduate of the University of Colorado and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Miss Van Debur is the only woman guest lecturer for General Motors, and, along with J. Douglas Edwards, is co-conductor of convention seminars, sales rallies and management training workshops. She is consultant to Best Foods on youth affairs, and, as United Air Lines Youth Speaker, addresses more than 75,000 teenagers each year. DSA President J. Robert Brouse said of Miss Van Debur "She is the personification of all the most important qualities of salesmanship, an indomitable achiever."

Your Problems

She Regards Conception as 'Rotten Luck'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married late (29) and was a successful career girl at the time. My husband wanted a family immediately. I did not. I secretly used contraceptives, pretending to want a child as much as he did. When he accidentally learned of my deception, I decided to make an honest attempt to have a baby in order to save our marriage.

My rotten luck was with me. I became pregnant immediately. My husband was overjoyed. I had a terrible nine months and a horrible delivery. Gregory was a breach birth and colicky from the first week. We didn't know what a good night's sleep was for 10 months.

Gregory is now seven years old and has given us nothing but aggravation. He is allergic to everything and I can't handle him. Neither can his teacher. She told me that in 20 years in education she has never seen a more difficult child. He is disobedient, stubborn, incorrigible and a disruptive influence wherever he goes. She suggested counseling.

My husband, who professed to want this child so much, is never home. His work takes him out of town from Monday through Friday. He says the boy is a mess because I'm a poor disciplinarian. He wants to send Gregory to a military school to "straighten him out." We finally found a school that will take him. What do you say?—Worn Out

Dear Worn: I could write a book on what's wrong with your son — based on your letter — but you need a quick answer. They boy needs counseling, not military school. And you need counseling, too. A child whose mother regarded his conception as "rotten luck" was in trouble the moment he was born.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it too much to ask a son who makes a fine living to pick up the phone and call his mother twice a month? On Sunday it would cost him one dollar. The last time we spoke I placed the call. He said he would call me "soon." That was three weeks ago. Why are children so selfish and thoughtless? I'm dying to hear his voice. Shall I call him?—Blue Monday

Dear Blue: Children don't get selfish and thoughtless overnight. Most of them were indulged or ignored when they were younger. My advice is to leave your son alone. You can't change him. Maybe when his children give him the chill he'll remember to pick up a phone and call you.

West High Boys Raise the Roof

The Construction of a camper's building for the Appleton YMCA Camp, Camp Nan-a-bo-sho, at Waube Lake, Lake wood, was a senior project for the Appleton High School-West woodworking class. The building, 18 by 54 feet, is divided into three sections consisting of two sleeping quarters for 24 campers, and a program room in the center. The all-frame cabin was built at West, disassembled, loaded on a truck and transported to the camp, where it was reassembled during a weekend by the 17 boys involved in the project. Above, from left, Mark Vandertie, Mike Van Eperen and Vern Guyette, work on the rafters. At right, putting together the shuplap for the siding are, from left, Steve Smith, James Schuett, Ralph Nabefeld, Jerry Robeck, Dennis Olson and Keith Ryppe. Below, the finished product at camp is admired by visitors. The boys chose this project as the culminating activity after a sequential study of woodworking for three years. The Appleton Board of Education approved the project for the nonprofit organization and all expenses incurred were paid by the YMCA. Roger Kerstner, instructor in the industrial arts department, was the adviser for the project. (Post-Crescent Photos)

City Hopes to Begin Budget Early

Appleton officials hope to put more daylight in their annual city budget preparations this year by setting a liberal time schedule well in advance.

Pressed by Ald. Alvin Tews (5th), Finance Committee chairman, Finance Director David Champion Monday night gave the committee a rough outline of a possible schedule.

Saying he and Mayor George Buckley hope this year's budget deliberations "will be a totally different thing from last year," Champion outlined a timetable beginning in July.

He repeated the mayor's recent promise to have department heads start preparing their fund requests next month, and said an initial draft of a budget might be ready for the Finance Committee about Sept. 1.

Study for Month

The committee could study it all that month and turn its recommendations over to the City Council early in October, to adopt as soon after that as aldermen are ready. This year's budget was adopted on Dec. 9.

A major change for the Finance Department would be to make its estimates of this year's spending — the springboard for next year's request — at the end of six months' actual experience, rather than nine as has been the practice in previous years.

The result might be a somewhat less complete picture of this year's experience, but the change allows about 3 months longer for budget preparations.

Citizens' organizations and some aldermen have severely criticized the timing of budget actions in the past few years, saying too little room is allowed for the council and public to study spending plans before the budget is adopted.

Half-Year Billings

Champion said his office would begin compiling the 1970 figures as soon as billings for the first half of the year are posted. He did not say when that might be, but presumably it would have to be during July in order to meet the rest of the timetable he outlined.

He prefaced his remarks by saying he would prefer to meet with Buckley before making a statement, though he added he believes his thinking and the mayor's are similar.

He said the audit of the 1969 city books is expected to be complete next month, and when it is complete he said he should be able to put together a written timetable. He said he might possibly have it ready for the committee's July 13 meeting.

Tews said he was asking for a schedule this year after having noted "a lot of interest" among citizens is already evident this year. He raised the subject, he said, "to let everyone know we are thinking about it."

Champion remarked he has communicated with officials in other cities and found that many set timetables, but seldom remain on them. He said a schedule is a good idea, but he warned, "You just can't follow it."

Committee man Glenn Thompson (13th) said that nevertheless it would be useful to make an attempt, and if the effort failed officials would at least know why.

Champion said the budget setting process must dovetail with related efforts including labor negotiations with city employees and preparations, currently about to begin, to assemble a five-year plan for capital improvements.

He said he doesn't expect

Buckley, Champion to Stick To Executive Budget System

Appleton is still on the executive budget system. Mayor George Buckley said this morning, because nobody on the City Council took him up on his suggestion late last year to drop the system.

The mayor said he made his announcement after the present year's city budget had been adopted last December, as a office in the procedure. The matter of "beating some of my allusion drew no reaction from enemies to the punch." But committee members

Buckley said he plans to ask after he recommended discarding the executive budget, "no body followed up on it."

As a result, he and Finance Director David Champion are valuation over the past year. planning to use the system. Based on the percentage increase seen by Schwarzbauer outlined preliminary plans Monday. Buckley said he will then write day to the Finance Committee all department heads instructing them to keep their departmental budget increases for 1971 within the same percentage figure.

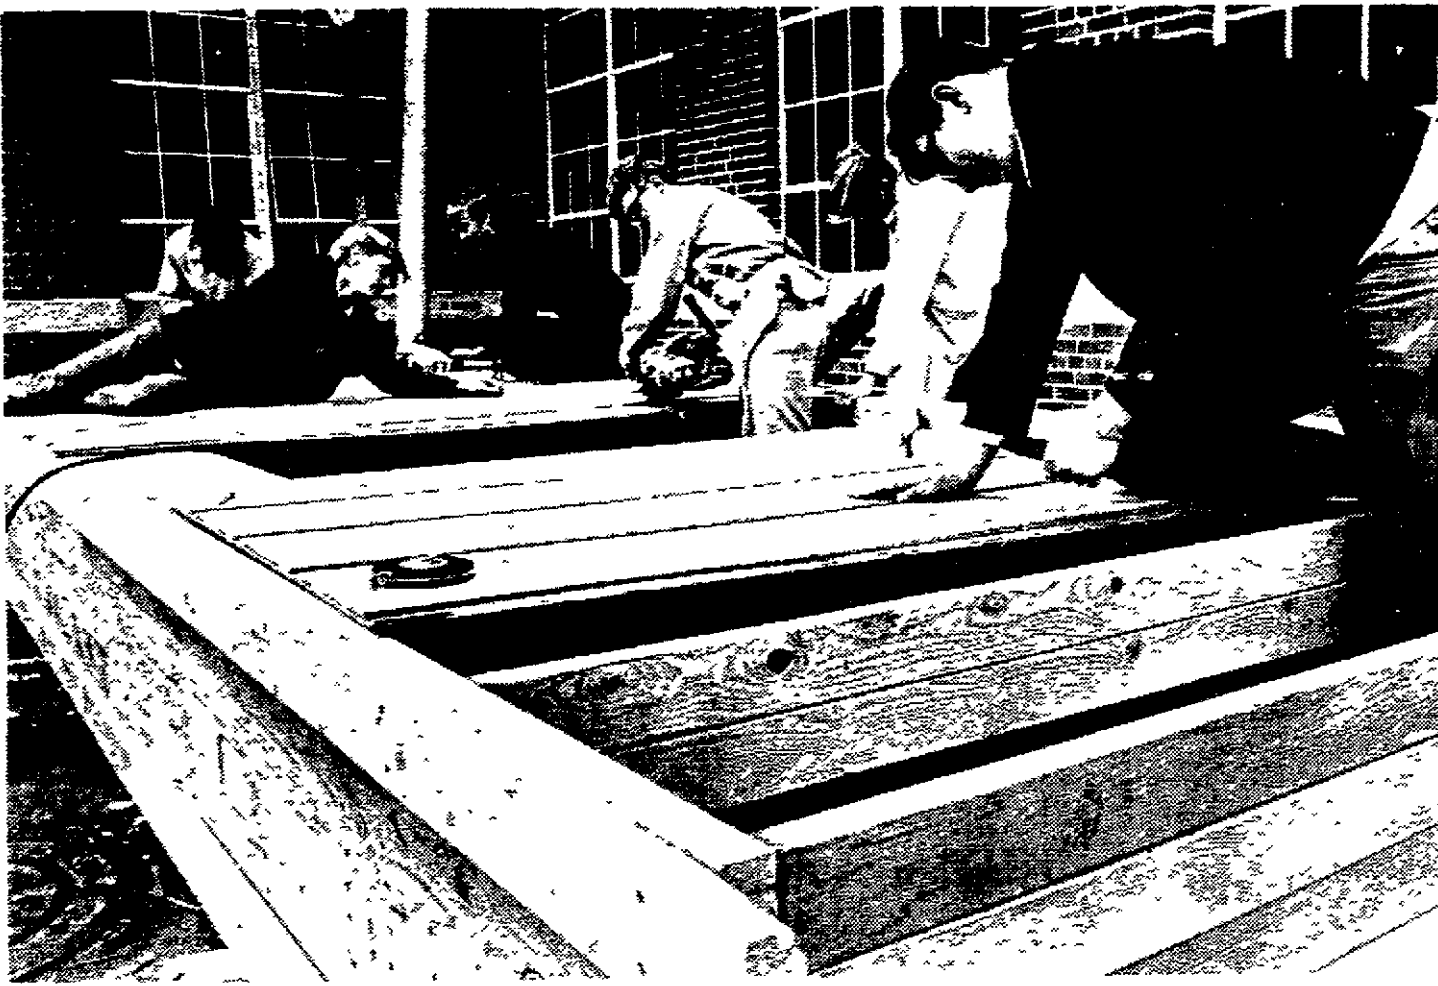

As applied by Buckley, an added step between the raw requests from department heads and the deliberations by the Assessor George Schwarzbauer's estimate next week of council's Finance Committee

In some cities which use an executive budget, the mayor's proposal virtually replaces committee work.

During budget deliberations since the city went on the Buckley system by council orders, the mayor and finance director have borne the brunt of criticism from civic groups and some aldermen who complained about the timing and the availability of advance information prior to adoption of the budget by the Council.

Students Plan Parade, Fest For July 4th

Events to Back U.S. Constitution, Democratic System

A Fourth of July parade and youth festival in support of the Constitution and the democratic system are being planned by a group of Fox Valley students.

Organizations calling themselves the Student Mobilization Committee and Concerned Students of the Fox Valley have applied for a parade permit from Appleton officials.

The students, represented by Stewart Neuville, route 1, Menasha, are seeking approval to use one of four routes for the parade, which is to be followed by speeches, rock band performances, films and ceremonies symbolizing the concerns of the young people.

Starting from Lawrence University at 2 p.m., the organizers propose using one of four routes ending either at Xavier High School, City Park, Appleton High School-West or Wilson Junior High.

Protest House Moving

Residents Make Noise, Lose Battle

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A group of Gillett Highland citizens put up determined but futile resistance Monday as the Streets and Sanitation Committee voted to permit a house to be moved from Northland Avenue to 1100 Lindbergh St.

Ald. Richard Schouten (19th), representative of the Highland area, cast the only audible dissenting vote opposing the move. The City Council acts on the committee recommendation Wednesday.

Steven J. Doerfler, owner of the home now located at 920 W. Northland Ave., on the site of a proposed ShopKo discount center, said the home will be worth $21,000 once it is moved and a garage, driveway, landscaping and other improvements are complete. He and his wife insisted they intend to make the improvements this year.

concerned only with the condition of the dwelling now. Doerfler could have an accident and be unable to carry out his plans, they pointed out.

They also argued that the home he proposes to move is already eight years old. They built their homes in the neighborhood expecting to be surrounded by other new homes as the area develops, they said.

Ironically, they agreed they object less to Doerfler's home, a 12,000-square-foot ranch style home with a gable roof, than to a second home that already has been moved from the Northland Avenue site to the lot next door to Doerfler's on Lindbergh.

The second home is smaller and has a flat roof. Residents complained of its condition and appearance and said it downgrades the rest of the neighborhood.

Doerfler, however, was slower in claiming his permit and the council action blocked his move. Several residents said they had had their homes appraised and they warned that if another appraisal shows the value has dropped after the two homes are relocated, they will sue for damages.

Doerfler defended his house, saying it will exceed the $20,000 value which was placed on surrounding homes by residents who circulated a petition and prompted Schouten's action at the last council meeting.

He added that none of the petitioners lives within 100 feet from his site, and many live considerable distances away. He also argued that other homes in the area are as old as his, a point that touched off lengthy dispute.

"Nothing Wrong"

The stormy hour-and-a-half session also brought Ald. Al Sloebauer (4th) into sharp clashes with some of the residents when he said he saw "nothing wrong" with the Doerfler home and said it compares with others in the area. He said he has inspected the home

Burglars Take $122 From Service Station

An overnight break-in at the Spur Gasoline Station, 1306 S. Oneida St., netted burglars $122 in cash from an office.

Appleton police said entry to the office was made by prying open a door. An assistant manager reported the incident to authorities about 7 a.m. today. He said an employee evidently had neglected to put the cash into a safe.

Electrical Pact Delayed

FVTI Board Authorizes Contracts of $5.1 Million

BY MAJIA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Contracts totaling $5.1 million for construction of the $5.8 million Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI) were approved Monday by the Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 Board.

Approval on the electrical contract of $780,000 was delayed, however, pending further study of alternatives. A special meeting will be called within two weeks to act on it.

conditioning contract was awarded to August Winter and Son, Appleton, for $909,000, and leave, leaves of absence, subject assignments, travel pay, hospital insurance, calendar, and salary, which begins at $7,300 base for a bachelors degree, going to $12,348 for bachelors degree plus 30 credits; and a $8,467 tie base for masters degree to $14,665 for masters plus 30 credits.

Under this year's contract, the salary is $7,000 base going to $11,639 for BS plus 30, and wayside and the document $8,117 base to $14,059 for MS "should be adhered to and followed as it was established."

Laurent Schutte, architect, said the final contract for food service equipment is expected to be about $16,000 not the construction schedule. Ground originally estimated $62,000 before the six-building complex will cause the decision was to go to be broken at 2 p.m. July 11.

Hutter Construction, Fond du Lac, will be general contractor for food Lac, will be general contractor for food service equipment and science equipment on a bid of $3,738,300. This equipment and science equipment includes a base bid of $3,6 million totalled about $51,000, million and three alternatives — round out the bids which total one an addition for a parking lot, ($147,000) the other two deductions ($36,700).

Change Orders

Three change orders also will be issued, authorizing aluminum fascia (plus $17,700) and reinstating the kitchen ceiling (plus $1,000) and pond and lining on the grounds (minus $30,000).

Originally, the apparent low bidder for the general contract had been Theodore Utschig and Son, Appleton, whose bid was $3.62 million. A representative from the firm questioned whether Hutter met specifications but was told by the architect that the Hutter base bid included $30,000 for the pond while Utschig bid had included that item as an alternate, making the Hutter bid lower.

Funds from the bond issue, Sirek reported, had been received and have been invested at about 6 per cent interest rate.

Federal Funds Help

Originally, a $6 million bond issue was authorized. Federal funds of over $400,000, however, reduced the required amount.

Bids, which were opened two weeks ago, came in about $200,000 lower than estimated.

Director William Sirek, explained that movable equipment will be purchased with the amount not used for construction. Funds for the movable equipment were to have been included in partial amounts in the general annual budget.

Calkins, Heinritz Announce Republicans May Face Primary for Sheriff

After two weeks without a candidate for sheriff, Outagamie County Republicans are now facing the possibility of a September primary as Shiocton Police Chief Philip Calkins and former Sheriff Donald Heinritz have taken out nomination papers.

Heinritz, 48, 1716 S. Jackson St., Appleton, served two terms as sheriff from 1954 to 1958 and then four years as undersheriff to his brother, Robert. In 1962, he lost a three-way race for sheriff to present Sheriff Calvin Spice and in 1966 he was defeated for the Republican nomination by Norbert Marx.

Since 1963, Heinritz has been for the City of Appleton. He served two terms as an alderman from the old 18th Ward and was president of the City Council in 1951.

He is a native of Appleton and Calkins, 41, was appointed Shiocton police chief in March after working as a salesman in Appleton and Black Creek. He had served on the Beloit Police Department for seven years before coming to this area eight years ago.

Calkins, an Air Force Korean War veteran, is married and has five children. He lives in rural Black Creek and is making his first try for elective office.

Menasha Vote May Test Little Lake Bridge Backing

MENASHA — Are Menasha residents willing to spend $700,000 of city funds to get a bridge built across Little Lake Butte des Morts around Ninth Street in the Town of Menasha?

Mayor James Adams has proposed asking them that question in a Ser: 8 advisory referendum.

In a five-page "memorandum" to aldermen released Monday night, the mayor spelled out where the bridge issue stands and what city officials can do to help put it high on the state bridge-building priority list.

Two resolutions will come before the council tonight: one setting an advisory referendum for Sept. 8 (primary election date; no extra city expenditure required) and another telling the Winnebago County Board what the city is doing and asking for "their political and ment budgets will be in the hands of the various committees and we will have a better idea as to future requirements."

Another reason is also clear: the mayor is not sure he could get the required two-thirds support of the common council to commit the $700,000 in city funds for the project.

"I think there would be four people against it, but I don't know," the mayor said this morning. An 8-4 vote of approval by the common council would be needed.

"If one member of the council is absent, and we get a 7-2 vote, we lose," the mayor pointed

Navy Pilot Dies In Plane Crash

Lt. Howard Kelly Was Married to Appleton Woman

A Navy pilot, Lt. Howard Kelly, 26, Jacksonville, Fla., married to a former Appleton woman, was killed Monday morning in a plane crash near Cape Kennedy.

Kelly was the husband of the former Linda Trutschel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trutschel, 23 Winona Court, Appleton. Trutschel is vice president of marketing for Appleton Coated Paper Co.

Kelly, a member of Attack Squadron 174, Naval Air Station, Cecil Field, Jacksonville, was on a routine flight at the time of the crash. Navy experts are investigating.

Mr. and Mrs. Trutschel learned of the death Monday afternoon.

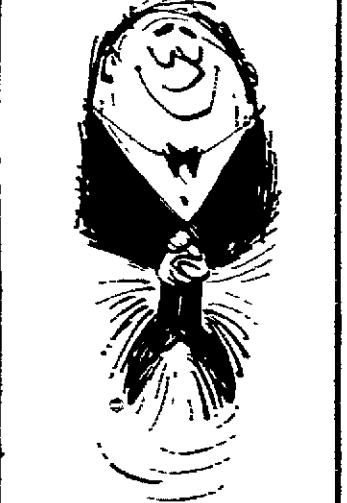

Kelly, a Florida native, married Miss Trutschel April 23, 1966, after graduating from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. He was a member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the university and entered the Navy upon graduation.

Kelly had served at bases at Pensacola, Fla.; Corpus Christi, Tex.; San Diego, Calif.; and at Memphis, Tenn. He was to have been stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., for two years.

Survivors are his widow, a son, his mother, two brothers, and a sister.

His father, Air Force Lt. Col. Howard W. Kelly, was killed two years ago while flying an Air American plane in Vietnam. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Small Fishing Hole Found In Neenah's Sewer

NEENAH — Some preliminary weekend fishing in several sewer lines near the Fox River channel has turned up only one leak large enough to possibly account for the fish which are finding their way into the sewage treatment plant.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, told the finance committee Monday night that his department and American Pipe Service, Minneapolis, had found three leaks where clear water is getting into the sanitary sewer system.

5 Million Gallons
"They account for maybe 400,000 to 500,000 gallons a day, but what we are looking for is in the neighborhood of five million gallons," Bryan said.

He told the committee, in response to a request by Chairman Paul Mueller, that he could bring in cost estimates for a complete check of city sewer leaks in two weeks after American Pipe Services has completed a pilot study.

The cost to date of the probe, which may represent the start of a comprehensive attack on clear water infiltration and subsequent overloading of treat-

Kraus Gets City Post In Neenah

NEENAH — Former Ninth Ward Ald. Joseph Kraus will apparently be Neenah city hall's new director of administration.

Kraus was recommended for the post Monday by the finance committee on a 4-1 vote, a decision which must still be confirmed by the entire city council at its Wednesday meeting.

The committee had interviewed about a dozen applicants for the $11,500 a year job in recent weeks.

Second Ward Ald. Walter "Doc" Loehning cast the only dissenting vote against Kraus after Third Ward Ald. Michael Ellis, in a surprise move, had called for a roll call ballot. A prior voice vote appeared to show no objection.

Secret Ballot

Loehning afterwards asked that the council vote Wednesday by secret ballot, which in the past usually has been the procedure on personnel matters. Ellis told him he could make that request at the council meeting.

Other aldermen voting in favor of recommending Kraus were Paul Mueller, Harold Young and William Zelinski.

The director of administration post has been vacant since April 7, when its previous holder, Roman V. Hauser, was elected mayor.

Resigns Post

Kraus resigned as alderman on April 2, midway in his second two-year term. He had been chairman of the street and sanitation committee, and had also served on the finance and health and welfare committees, and on the capital expenditures subcommittee.

As a member of the finance committee, Kraus frequently challenged department budgets in an effort to keep property taxes at a minimum.

Kraus, a former price supervisor with Neenah Foundry Co., lives with his wife and a son at 419 Cambridge Court.

Duties of the director of administration post include overseeing city hall administration, developing and standardizing personnel procedures and policies, administering personnel matters including wage negotiations, and city hall record keeping.

The post replaced the office of city clerk, held by Hauser for 33 years, when former Mayor Donald Hassler won council approval last summer to reorganize the city hall administrative structure.

Winneconne Girl Named Mayor, Others Hold Badger State Offices

MADISON — A Winneconne girl, Joyce Gillick, was chosen mayor of the city of Butternut at the Badger Girls State here Monday, and was one of 14 from the Fox Valley area elected to govern the 10 cities.

Other young participants from the Valley chosen for municipal posts are Teresa Janssen, Little Chute, alderman, city of Ashby; Nancy Lawton, New London, alderman, city of Birch; Cynthia Olson, Waupaca, supervisor, Butternut; Mary Ann Kramer, Fremont, supervisor, city of Cedar; Renee R. Reed, Black Creek, school board member, Maple City;

Barbara Ann Bognard, Neenah, city clerk; Connie Jean Haack, Waupaca, city attorney; Greta Carol Berg, Menasha, and Kathleen E. Hart, Waupaca, aldermen, all in the City of Appleton of Wisconsin.

The young participants, all entering the senior grade in high school this fall, are chosen by school faculties for leadership, scholarship and character.

When You're Out of Bartenders . . .

MENASHA — A few more hours, and a few dozen bartenders could be out of jobs.

That's the latest word from Menasha police investigator Daniel Gries, who said that as of this morning, about 25 percent of the city's bartenders had not applied for bartender license renewals.

Out of Luck

They'll be out of luck after the common council meeting tonight, because the next common council meeting is set for July 7.

The council must approve all bartender license renewal requests, and the drink server's old licenses expire after June 30.

So between then and the 7th, a lot of bartenders could be out of jobs. Gries said the department will be required to check for renewed license after the June 30 deadline.

200 Bartenders

"We have over 200 bartenders in the city of Menasha, and I know that a heck of a lot of them have not had their licenses renewed," Gries said this morning.

He said he had been getting a lot of phone calls from bartenders who had just realized they only have until the last June council meeting — not the end of the month — to apply at the police department for their renewals.

A Plain Tablet Provides Shadow Show Stage

BY CAPPY DICK

A sit-down moving shadow consisting of silhouettes made with your hands and fingers is of your right hand. If it falls on the tablet, creating a sharply outlined shadow, your position is correct and you are ready to proceed. Otherwise you will have to shift your chair or the light.

Most boys and girls know how to hold a hand to make a silhouette shadow of a rabbit, a dog, an old man and similar figures. Many amusing shadows, each of which can be made to move realistically, can be created by experimenting with the position of your hand and fingers.

If it is possible to prop up the tablet or cardboard so a sharply defined shadow will fall on it, you will have both hands free to make silhouettes, extending the range of your performance.

Carty Third In Voting for NL Outfield

Partial Returns in All-Star Balloting Shows Aaron First

NEW YORK (AP) — Hot-hitting Rico Carty of the Atlanta Braves has received a swarm of write-in votes to place third among outfield candidates in early balloting for the National League All-Star team.

Carty, whose .404 batting average is tops in the majors, was omitted from the list of All-Star nominees selected by NL managers and player representatives before the start of the season.

But after the first week of voting by baseball fans across the country, he had picked up 71,511 write-in ballots, compared to 170,123 for teammate Hank Aaron, the top vote-getter, and 72,846 for San Francisco's Willie Mays, the No. 2 man in the outfield poll.

Catcher Johnny Bench and third baseman Tony Perez of Cincinnati's West Division leaders trailed Aaron in the over-all voting with 142,629 and 89,337, respectively.

Shortstop Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs received 76,298. Willie McCovey of San Francisco was leader among first basemen with 57,452 and Chicago's Glenn Beckert topped the second baseman with 64,233.

The early returns, released Monday, represented some 242,000 votes cast through last Thursday by the fans, who are picking the All-Star starters, exclusive of the pitchers, for the first time since 1957. Players selected the teams from 1958 through last season.

The first America League returns will be released Friday.

Pitchers and reserves for the July 14 classic at Cincinnati will be chosen by the rival managers. Gil Hodges of the New York Mets and Earl Weaver of Baltimore.

The closest NL races in the early voting were at first base, where McCovey held a 2,800 margin over St. Louis' Richie Allen, and in the outfield, where Carty's write-in votes put him about 3,000 ahead of the Reds' Pete Rose for the number three spot.

Hickman Lags
Except for Carty, write-in candidates were lagging far behind. Jim Hickman of the Cubs, third behind Carty and Perez in the batting race, was not among the top eight vote-getters for the outfield. Brewers Get Dave May From Orioles MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers obtained outfielder Dave May from the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday in exchange for cash and the contracts of two minor league pitchers—Buzz Stephen and Dick Baney.

The contracts of both, who had been with Milwaukee's Portland, Ore. farm club, were assigned to the Oriole farm at Rochester of the International League.

To make room for May on the partner roster, the Brewers optioned utility man Hank Allen to Rochester.

The Braves said that as a result of the transaction, completed just before the midnight deadline for trades, May will be in uniform at Baltimore Tuesday night against his former Oriole teammates.

Wells Arrested on Weapon Charge

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Warren Wells, 28, wide receiver for the Oakland Raiders, was arrested Sunday in Galveston on charges of carrying a prohibited weapon.

Galveston County sheriff's deputies said a 22 caliber pistol was found on the rear floor-board of Wells' car.

Padres Defeated, 5-4 Pirate Rookie Halts Dodgers in First Start; Twins Check Senators

BY HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Nelson got the San Francisco Willies in his major league debut and the Los Angeles Dodgers in his first start despite an aching shoulder that's threatening to make him a pain in the neck to National League hitters.

The 22-year-old right-hander, who made the major league scene with the Pittsburgh Pirates only last week, checked the Dodgers on five hits and one earned run in seven innings-plus Monday night and came away a 5-2 victor.

Nelson, who had pitched six scoreless innings in two previous relief stints, was tapped because the Pirates' four regular starters all worked over the weekend.

St. Louis held off San Diego 5-4 in the only other National League game while Houston's scheduled contest at Philadelphia was rained out.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles had their lead in the East Division trimmed to 2½ games over the idle New York Yankees when Milwaukee dumped them 9-6. Elsewhere, Minnesota clipped Washington 5-3. Cleveland edged California 3-2 in 12 innings. Oakland battered Detroit 12-7 and Kansas City overtook Boston 7-6. The Chicago White Sox also had the night off.

Deck Pitches 1-Hit Win Over Cubs

QUINCY, Ill. — Southpaw Dennis Deck fired a masterful 1-hit, 2-0 victory over Quincy in the second game, providing the Appleton Foxes with a split of their doubleheader with the Midwest League-leading Cubs here Monday night.

Deck came up with his gem after the Cubs had shelled the Foxes, 7-1, in the opener. The result kept the Foxes in fourth place in the ML race, six games behind Quincy.

Appleton returns to Goodland Field today for another twin bill, as the Foxes play host to Cedar Rapids. The first game will start at 6:30 p.m.

The only hit off Deck, now 3-4, came in the second inning when with two outs, first baseman Mike Holbrook slapped a single through the box.

Hill Walks
Quincy's only other baserunner was pitcher Jesse Hill on a walk in the third inning. Hill, however, was erased momentarily on an infield double play, and Deck wound up by retiring the last 12 Quincy batters in succession after that.

So effective was Deck that only three balls were hit to the outfield. The Cubs hit into 10 infield outs, including four rollers back to Deck on the mound.

Appleton picked up the only run it needed for Deck to win in the second frame, when Wayne Francine singled and raced to second when outfielder Bill Massarand bobbled the ball.

The wild pitch moved Francine to third and then Stu Singleton came through with a hit to plate the Appleton runner.

The Foxes added insurance in the sixth. After two outs, Quincy third-baseman Steve Collette made two successive errors — the last one a throwing miscue — that allowed Gary Isakson to score all the way from first base.

Quincy jumped on Appleton starter Sam Dunbar for a 2-0 edge in the first inning of the second game and then raked reliever Cleo Jackson for five more runs in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Joe Stover picked up his seventh win against one loss for the Cubs in relief. Stover allowed the Appleton run in the seventh on a Hugh Yancy single, a walk to Dana Ryan, and another error.

Brewers Rally to Beat Baltimore; Pena's Hit Is Key

By GORDON BEARD

However, Richert, who had a 0.90 earned run average for 16 appearances, also failed to throttle Milwaukee's winning rally Monday night.

After the Brewers scored one run to pull within 6-4 and chase starter Mike Cuellar, Eddie Watt yielded a run-producing single by pinch hitter Tito Francona and Richert was summoned.

Richert fanned pinch hitter

However, Richert, who had a 0.90 earned run average for 16 appearances, also failed to throttle Milwaukee's winning rally Monday night.

A couple of hours after the latest loss, Weaver and his coaches still were assembled with Harry Dalton, the club's director of player personnel, trying to make a deal prior to the trading deadline.

The Orioles were believed to be after pitching help. The staff has been somewhat in-and-out, with starter Jim Palmer and reliever Pete Richert the only consistent performers.

'Complete Big Leaguer'

Chicago Halfback Brian Piccolo, 26, Dies of Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Brian tries and caught 23 passes for Piccolo, halfback of the Chicago 291 yards.

At Wake Forest, in his record 1964 season, Piccolo gained 1,044 yards on 252 attempts, for a 4.14 average. He scored 111 points on 17 touchdowns and nine conversions.

A hospital spokesman said that Piccolo, who was 26, died a future that held so much for shortly before 3 a.m. EDT. No further details were immediately disclosed.

Piccolo missed the last five games of 1969 because of surgery for removal of a tumorous growth in the chest.

Before joining the Bears 1959, Piccolo attended Central Catholic High School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

George Halas, Bears owner and chairman, called Piccolo "a complete big leaguer in physical skills and competitive instincts."

Extra Effort
"The Bears will miss Brian as a team player who always gave extra effort in practice and in a game," Halas said in a statement following Piccolo's death.

Piccolo had been running back Gale Sayers' alternate until a knee injury Nov. 10, 1968, forced Sayers out for the rest of that season.

He wound up that day with 18 rushes for 67 yards, and four receptions for 54. After that, he was a starter for the Bears.

During the final five games of 1968, Piccolo paired with Ron Bull in the Bears backfield and added 76 carries for 269 yards and 15 pass receptions for 155. The 1968 campaign ended as his best in the league; he had an aggregate of 450 yards on 123

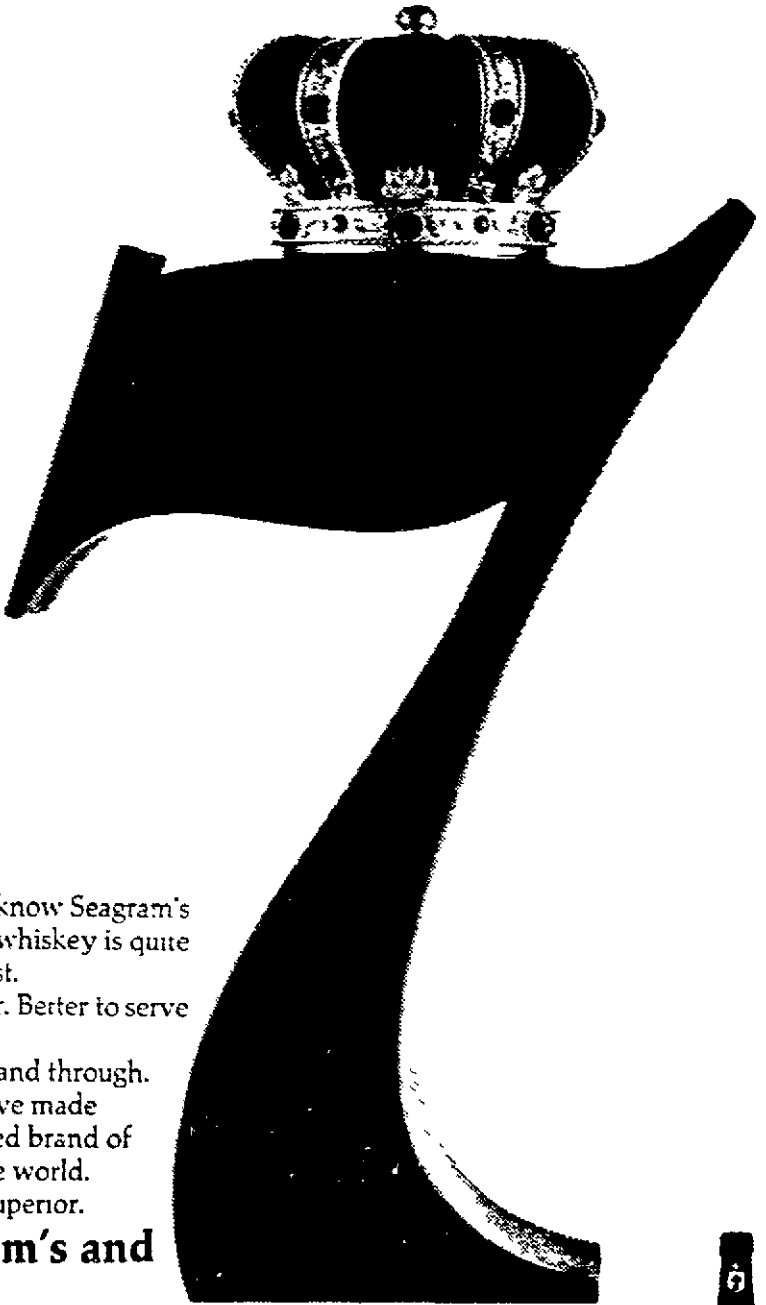

Andy Young, Track Star, Dies in Crash

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Track star Andy Young, a member of the U.S. college record mile relay team, was injured fatally Sunday in the collision of his motorcycle and a car.

Young, 21, a member of the UCLA team which ran a record 3:03.4 in the 1969 NCAA championships in Nashville, Tenn., currently was enrolled as a junior at Idaho State University.

The driver of the other vehicle was uninjured, police said.

Brewers Rally, Beat Orioles

Russ Snyder, but with a 1-0 count on Ted Kubiak, Ted Savage and Francona worked a double steal. Francona could have been tagged out, had second baseman Bobby Floyd handled catcher Clay Dalrymple's bouncing throw.

The count went to 2-0 on the pitch, and Weaver ordered Kubiak intentionally walked. Roberto Pena then cleared the sacks with a double and later scored on a single by Gerry McNertney.

"A week ago our hitting was off," Weaver said, "and now the pitching isn't doing the job. But we'll get coordinated in a short time, and then everybody will say we'll walk away with it."

Slaps Critics
The last comment apparently was a left-handed slap at some local critics who, when the Orioles were winging ahead, claimed their opposition wasn't too good.

"Ten days ago everybody said we had the greatest team ever assembled," Weaver continued, his face reddening. "And some people were asking for a raise."

Second baseman Dave Johnson, who left Monday's game with a sprained right finger, was quoted recently as saying he thought he should be making more at this stage of his career than the $35,000 he is paid.

"If Floyd had come up with Dalrymple's throw, it could have changed everything," Weaver said. "They would have tied it with two runs in the ninth off Sam McDowell before suffering their fifth defeat in six games."

A grand slam homer by Frank Fernandez highlighted a six-run third inning that carried Oakland past Detroit. Fernandez connected off Mickey Lolich, who has a sore back and was pitching in relief for the first time in more than a year.

Rick Monday also homered for the A's while Dick McAuliffe's grand slam was one of three Tiger homers. Willie Horton and Al Kaline hit the others.

The Royals rallied three times to beat the Red Sox. Two-run homers by Pat Kelly in the fourth and Ed Kirkpatrick in the fifth wiped out early Boston leads and KC finally won it with three in the ninth.

The runs came across on singles by Lou Piniella and Paul Schaal. Jackie Hernandez' safe bunt, an error, Kelly's sacrifice fly and a game-winning single by Amos Otis.

Kennedy threw out Dave Campbell trying to go from second to third on a seventh-inning grounder and Nate Colbert followed with a wasted double. Simmons picked pinch runner Jose Arcia off second in the eighth after two leadoff singles and the Padres settled for one run when Ramon Webster singled and Ron Slocum doubled.

Greg Arnold to Discuss Future With Baltimore After Attack on Umpire

DALLAS (AP) — Greg Arnold ran for the umpire. Arnold pays his debt to society, the Dallas-Fort Worth hit him with his fist and kicked and to baseball, we'll certainly pitcher suspended by the Texas him when the umpire fell to take a new look at him next League Saturday night after an attack on umpire Nick Emeterio pulled him off the umpire.

His suspension for the remainder of the season by Texas League president Bobby Bragan means he is through in organized baseball for the year unless he seeks and wins an appeal to the National Association of Minor Leagues.

Bragan said, "Mr. Phil Piton (minor leagues commissioner) usually stands by any ruling by a league president" and added that he thought it unlikely that Arnold would play any more baseball this season.

J. Frank Cashen, Orioles executive vice-president, said "If there are any rib fractures, to, will meet with Baltimore Orioles officials soon to discuss his future."

The incident occurred when, a Memphis Blues baserunner attempted to steal second. Arne being peddled to Oakland—re-old, who had the ball in his portedly for $75,000, and Bob Bruda, a former San Francisco Giant, checked in with the Brewers.

Also checking in with the Brew crew was 18-year-old Darrell Porter, a catcher who decided to try it with Milwaukee as the club's No. 1 choice in the free-agent draft rather than play football at Oklahoma University.

ARD Tennis Program Is Under Way

The annual summer tennis instruction program of the Appleton Recreation Department begins this week.

Lessons are given at Erb Park Monday and Wednesday afternoons, at Madison Junior High Wednesday and Friday mornings, at Pierce Park Tuesday and Thursday mornings and at Appleton West Tuesdays and Thursdays — mornings and afternoons.

Adult classes will be held at Appleton West at 6:30 p.m. Thursdays.

Boys and girls classes are determined by grade level — from third grade through senior high. Information on the time for classes at the various age levels is available at the ARD office.

Dempsey, Carpentier Recall Historic Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — "If I Carpentier weighs 157 as stood up a little longer, I'd have against the 168 he claims he been killed. Thus fellow was a lion in the ring, a ferocious beast."

Jack Dempsey, coming up on his 75th birthday, grinned as he listened to Georges Carpentier describe the Dempsey of 1921 who had knocked him out in the fourth round of boxing's first million dollar fight.

"He came out and hit me on the chin with a right hand," Dempsey had said earlier. "I went down and was almost knocked out but I went to work on him then. But most of all, I remember I got $500,000."

Carpentier, 76, a gray-haired stately man, objected. He put up his hands and touched Jack on the sleeve of his jacket. "No, no, Jack," he said. "We must not lie. I did not knock you down, just groggy. That was a lot for me. Jack couldn't imagine that a man of my weight could punch like that."

Dempsey weighs about 210 as compared to 183 for the long ago international fight at Boyle's were surprised when Tex Rick-Thirty Acres in Jersey City, and filled it to the top."

Both Dempsey and Carpentier have one regret about that fight of 49 years ago that drew 80,183 people and a gate of $1,789,238. Dempsey got a flat $500,000 and Carpentier $225,000.

"They wanted us to take a percentage," said Carpentier, shaking his head. "But we both insisted on the guarantee. We international fight at Boyle's were surprised when Tex Rick-Thirty Acres in Jersey City, and filled it to the top."

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

by John Bahne

Here's an interesting fact about golf that shows, more than anything else, how this game has grown... In 1934, the leading money winner in pro golf, Paul Runyan, won a total of just over $6,000 all year—and he was the LEADING money winner, which means everybody else made less...

Today's leading money winners make almost 40 times more than that, or over $200,000 a year!

Did you know that the great baseball star Ty Cobb never had a number on his uniform in all the years he played in the big leagues...

The reason was that Cobb retired in 1928 and the majors didn't start numbering all players until 1931...

Thus many top stars of the past went through their whole careers without even having a number on their uniforms.

I bet you didn't know... We still have a large selection of ties, socks, shirts and sport shirts in Dad's favorite fabrics, colors and designs. Don't forget him on Father's Day, June 21.

Hank Aaron Is a Hitter For the Ages

You know something? I never did dig Picasso. Seascapes are more my bag. But that's all right. People who know Art will tell me he's one of a kind. Good enough.

Igor Stravinsky, I consider just a noise-maker. Irving Berlin is more my style. But critics I respect say Stravinsky gave them goose pimples. Fair enough.

You could fool me with the Kohinoor diamond. Just looks like a hunk of glass to me. Dime store rubies I can't tell from the real article. But some guy with a glass screwed in his eye gets white when he looks at them. OK. They're priceless. I'll drink to that.

I don't like New York in June, how about you? I don't like a Gershwin tune, how about you? Moonlight and motor trips, all right. But I don't like potato chips. And Greta Garbo's looks don't give me a thrill. But the lyricist must have had company or the song never would have got off the onionskin and onto the standards.

So, now, as an expert, I'm going to tell you something I told you before, only maybe you weren't paying attention or you said, "Phooey! What about Mays? What about Mantle? Snider? Clemente?"

I'm going to tell you watching Henry Aaron play baseball is like watching Rembrandt paint or a tiger stalk or listening to Churchill speak.

This is what Art with a capital "A" as in "Aaron" is all about. Webster finds that art is "in its most distinct sense... implying a personal, unanalyzable creative power."

I have been telling you this for years, but the figures are finally catching up to me. Millions of guys play baseball. Nearly 20,000 have made the big leagues. Only nine of them have made 3,000 hits. Henry Aaron is one of them. Only three of them have hit more than 550 home runs. Henry Aaron is one of them.

You name the category—hits, doubles, extra-base hits, slugging average, home runs, runs scored, runs-batted-in—and all Henry Aaron has to beat out is a bunch of ghosts. Willie Mays, and I take nothing away from this great player, will have to wave to him as he goes by any day now.

Right field is not exactly a glamor spot in baseball. Some nights, you could take a book out with you. But, when it gets busy out there, you never saw a guy do so much so quickly without seeming to rush as Henry Aaron. He could play it in a top hat without getting it dirty. He never plays an out into a double. He never plays a single into a triple. If he dives for a ball, he catches it. If he jumps for a ball, put "g" down in your scorebook. Some guys play fly balls into inside-the-park home runs. Henry plays home runs into outside-the-park outs.

He takes a boat to cross water just like everyone else, but now comes the tough part of his career.

Historically, when a player gets one cleat in the Hall of Fame (and Henry's bat and ball from his 3,000th hit are already there), he gets in as such a rush to go the rest of the way, he leaves the team way behind.

I mean, if you get your

Bonduel and Oneida Mission warmed up for their battle at Oneida Sunday by staying unbeaten in the divisional races of the Dairyland Baseball League.

Bonduel exploded for a 13-2 win over Shiocton last Sunday for its fifth straight triumph in the North, and Oneida belted Seymour, 12-1, for an identical record in the South.

Elsewhere around the league, Sunday, Navarino tipped Hofs Park, 5-4, and Cecil shaded Bear Creek, 6-5, in Northern contests, while Freedom out-slugged Kaukauna, 13-10, and Nichols whipped Black Creek, 11-6, in the South.

A Saturday makeup game saw Kaukauna get past Black Creek, 7-6.

Bonduel and Shiocton were scoreless for two innings, but then Bonduel tallied three times in the third, five in the fourth, and three in the fifth for an 11-0 lead.

Art Gast was the victim of the Bonduel assault. John Wartman and Glen Berkahn combined for a 6-hitter for the winners.

Lyle Behm was the hitting star for Bonduel, driving in four runs with a perfect, 3-for-3 day at the plate.

Dennis Stoltenow slammed a 2-run single in the bottom of the ninth inning, climaxing a 3-run rally that gave Cecil its 6-5 win over Bear Creek. BC had scored two runs in the top of the inning to take the lead.

Stoltenow went 3-for-5 for the day to pace the winners, and Tom Suprise also drove in two runs with a hit. Mark Hein was 2-for-4 for Cecil.

Nichols scored six runs in the third inning on six hits to put Black Creek away. Fran Schmelzel scattered nine hits for the winners and struck out 13 BC batters.

Kaukauna had a 6-run inning against Freedom but still lost its slugfest to Freedom. The winners held a 10-3 lead after the first three frames.

Gary Hodkiewicz got Freedom off to great start with a grand slam in the first inning. Quinn Vanden Heuvel had 3-for-4 and drove in two runs for Kaukauna.

An accident Sunday morning, Nick F. Schaefer on a motion picture in the parking lot of Sacred Heart Church resulted in minor injuries for Mrs. Joseph Mauthe, 68, 1408 S. Jackson St. Appleton police said the woman was getting into an auto owned by William Steichen, 1420 S. Jackson St., when the car door was struck by an auto driven by Mary C. Foegen, 32, 721 E. Maple St. Officers said the Mauthe woman was bumped by the door hinge when the Foegen car, which was turning left, struck the door.

Byrne Brunette, 32, Greenville, was fined $100 was costs Friday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a charge of disorderly conduct brought by his wife.

Raw gasoline floating in a basement sewer at the Wilma Retzlaff home, 130 N. Richmond St., brought one unit of the Appleton Fire Department Saturday afternoon. Officials said down the gasoline, but were unable to determine where it came from.

Two persons were hurt Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding struck an auto at the intersection of Outagamie County Trunk A and Capitol Drive.

County traffic officers said an auto driven by Sylvia J. Plutz, 54, route 2, Black Creek, struck an auto making a left turn onto County Trunk A from Capitol Drive driven by Stanley R. Turner, 82, 406 Parkway Blvd. Plutz was northbound on A at the time of the accident.

Two passengers in the Plutz car, Liela Plutz, 36, and Theresa Plutz, 84, suffered bumps. Damage to both cars totaled $275.

The case of a 31-year-old Appleton woman charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor boy was dropped in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Monday. Appleton detectives charged that Joyce Lieth, 1130 W. Eighth St., furnished beer for a 17-year-old boy last Aug. 26 to 29. The case was dropped by County Judge.

Girl Is Under Supervision

17-Year-Old Member Of Shoplifting Ring Found Delinquent

A 17-year-old Kaukauna girl, the last of six to appear in the Juvenile Court on charges brought against a large shoplifting ring operating in the Fox Valley, was placed on supervision to the Outagamie County Department of Social Services Monday until her eighteenth birthday.

County Judge Raymond P. Dohr found the girl delinquent. She pleaded guilty to the charge of receiving and concealing stolen property from other members of the ring on Feb. 7. The value of the merchandise, for which restitution was also ordered Monday, was put at about $105. It was taken from six stores in the Appleton area.

A shoplifting charge brought April 19, after the girl took two girl's shirts from the Treasure Island store, was also considered by Dohr in passing sentence Monday. The shirts were valued at $5.98.

One of the five other juveniles convicted of the shoplifting charges received an indeterminate term at the Wisconsin School for Girls at Oregon earlier in Juvenile Court, and restitution was ordered.

The four others were placed on supervision to the county department until their 18th birthdays, and ordered to make restitution for the stolen items.

Massachusetts Dean Of Education To Speak To Curriculum Council

OSHKOSH — Dwight W. Allen, dean of the School of Education at the University of Massachusetts, will speak at the annual meeting Thursday of the Fox Valley Curriculum Study Council, according to Roger J. Herold, assistant professor of education at Oshkosh State University and executive director of the council.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Nino's Steak House, Appleton.

Allen is a member of the Association of Colleges and Schools of Education in State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and chairman of the Commission on Education for the Teaching Profession of that association.

Boy Cut as He Walks Through Glass Pane

A 14-year-old boy, who walked through a glass pane at the Gulf Gasoline Station, 1601 N. Richmond St., was treated and released Monday night at St. Elizabeth Hospital with cuts to the right leg and chest and scratches to his hands.

David J. Gerard, 46 Sherman Place, told police he thought the pane was a door.

An employee said it would cost $125 to replace the window.

A Thursday afternoon preliminary examination will be held in the military service in Germany. Appleton police charge, many, is out of the court's jurisdiction and could not be called to testify.

An auto-pickup truck accident shortly after noon Monday brought minor injuries for Robert A. Knapp, 43, 3608 Lexington St. He suffered a head bump when his auto, eastbound on Edgemere Drive, was hit by the truck southbound on Kensington Drive driven by Mary D. Smith, 17, route 3, Appleton. Appleton police said the accident occurred at the intersection.

Ralph H. Murphy, 60, 215 E. College Ave., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital early Monday evening after complaining of chest pains. Appleton police, who were notified through a telephone operator, called Gold St. Cross ambulance.

An overheated gas dryer, which caused a fire seal to ignite brought four units of the Appleton Fire Department Monday morning to the William Gardner residence, 614 S. Pierce St. Officials, who spent 23 minutes at the scene, said the fire was out on arrival.

HORTONVILLE — A single-car mishap about two miles south of here on Outagamie County Trunk T brought minor injuries for a 19-year-old route 2, Hortonville woman Saturday night. Outagamie County traffic officers said an auto northbound on County Trunk T driven by Bonnie L. Schuelke veered off the right side of the highway, came back on and entered a ditch on the other side of the roadway, striking a tree. The woman told authorities she lost control of the car after swatting an insect.

KAUKAUNA — Robert Sievert, 17, route 2, Kaukauna, pleaded guilty of failure to yield right of way and was fined $15 by Municipal Justice Clarence O'Connor Monday after the youth was involved in an accident about 10:35 p.m. Saturday.

KAUKAUNA — George Verkullen, 901 W. 10th St., told police that vandals punched a hole in a new $16 swimming pool purchased for his children and broke branches from an apple tree at his home between 2 and 6 p.m. Saturday.

KAUKAUNA — John Stark, 23, 1037 1/2 W. Lorain St., Appleton, was cited for failure to yield right of way after he drove from a parking lot into the path of a car being driven south on Crooks Avenue by Kathleen Welhouse, 21, route 3, Kaukauna, about 10:35 p.m. Friday.

Leone Stark, passenger in the Stark auto, complained of a bruised shoulder.

KAUKAUNA — Wilfred Powers, 100 E. 13th St., told police that a hit-and-run vehicle damaged the left fender of his auto, while it was parked on Third Street Friday evening or early Saturday morning.

KAUKAUNA — A single-car mishap late Sunday afternoon sent a route 1 youth to Community Hospital here with minor back and right elbow injuries. Outagamie County traffic officers said David Vanden Bloom, 18, was northbound on State 55 just north of County Trunk 100 when he lost control of his car, hit the ditch and the left side of the roadway, traveled several hundred feet, crossed back over the highway and turned over in the ditch. There was $1,200 damage to the 1967 auto.

MADISON — Top University of Wisconsin administrators — President Fred H. Harrington — were handed pay boosts by their Board of Regents Friday.

Included were the creation of two new vice presidents of the school as well. Chancellors of the system, including UW-Green Bay campus head Edward Weidner, were handed pay boosts ranging between $1,000 and $2,250.

The highest raises were awarded Madison campus Chancellor Edwin Young, bringing his salary to a $39,250 a year level — just $250 short of that paid chief UW Vice President Robert Clodius, who also received a $2,250 pay hike.

Harrington, now paid $47,000 a year and due to give up the presidency Oct. 1, received no increase.

Other chancellors raised include: Weidner, $1,500, to $31,500; J. M. Klotzsch of Milwaukee, $1,500 to $35,000; I. G. Wyllie, Parkside, $1,500 to $31,500; L. H. Adolphson, center system, $1,000 to $31,000, and H. L. Ahlgren, extension, $1,500 to $31,500.

Other vice presidents and similar officers include: C. A. Engman, vice president of Neenah's animal shelter, will be included in the week-end's events.

Problem clinics and a guided end's events.

for administration, $1,000 to $30,000; Wallace Lemon, vice president, $1,500 to $29,000; Reuben Lorenz, promoted to vice president for business and finance, $2,000 to $29,000; LeRoy Luberg, vice president, $1,500 to $26,500; Robert Percy, promoted to vice president, $2,000 to $27,500; Robert Taylor, vice president for public relations, $1,750 to $29,250; Clarke Smith, secretary of the board of regents, $1,250 to $23,750.

A notice of injury has been filed with Appleton officials for the parents of a 3-year-old south side girl who may have consumed ant poison set outside Fire Station No. 2 last week.

Lawyers for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Allen, 1014 S. Lawe St., submitted the notice, saying the incident took place Wednesday.

According to a Fire Department spokesman, a fireman saw Jacqueline Allen with a small white cap of ant poison and notified her parents, who took her to a local hospital for treatment.

The parents could not be reached this morning, but the Fire Department spokesman said the child was not hospitalized and apparently escaped lasting effects.

A notice of injury has been filed with Appleton officials for the parents of a 3-year-old south side girl who may have consumed ant poison set outside Fire Station No. 2 last week.

Lawyers for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Allen, 1014 S. Lawe St., submitted the notice, saying the incident took place Wednesday.

According to a Fire Department spokesman, a fireman saw Jacqueline Allen with a small white cap of ant poison and notified her parents, who took her to a local hospital for treatment.

The parents could not be reached this morning, but the Fire Department spokesman said the child was not hospitalized and apparently escaped lasting effects.

Bill Van Bommel Tours South America

MENASHA — Menasha's Bill Van Bommel, who was picked by the Oakland Athletics in the recent free agent draft, is slated to return home this week from a 10-day tour of South America.

Van Bommel, a 6-2 right-hander, is a member of a baseball team organized by the city of Coral Gables, Fla., which annually makes good will trips through South America.

The big righthander is the only high school player on the squad which has played to between 30,000 and 40,000 people per game in Colombia and Venezuela.

Funds derived from the games are donated to charitable organizations. The group, which also includes four bat-girls, also took bedding and used baseball equipment which is distributed to hospitals there.

The team was picked by the University of Miami baseball coach, who serves as the coach on the trip.

Van Bommel, who was graduated from Menasha high school two weeks ago, posted a 13-2 record in helping the Bluejays to two straight Mid-Eastern Conference championships.

Because he has been gone, he hasn't talked with the Oakland organization.

Summer Jobs Scarce in New London

BY SKIP HAMMERBERG
Post-Crescent Correspondent

NEW LONDON — Local college students and recent graduates looking for summer jobs have a great deal in common with their counterparts in larger cities.

In New London, as well as the rest of the nation, work for the summer employee is scarce and unpredictable.

A survey of eight of the city's largest employers indicates that most have decreased the number of students hired for the summer, or at best managed to maintain last year's level of employment.

The Curwood division of Bemis Company, a plastics manufacturer, did not hire any summer personnel. At the present time the firm has about 18 regular employees laid-off due to the trucking strike and a slowdown in the national economic picture.

Marvin Curler, a Curwood executive, indicated that the employees now off would not be rehired if the present economic trend continues.

Good Workers

Normally the company hires about six students for the summer.

"If you're looking for summer help, I can recommend some very good workers," Curler stated.

The Borden Company plant in the city is one of the industries which has maintained its summer employment level. Gerhard Felsner, employment officer, reports that the company has continued a policy of keeping the jobs available as long as possible in order to help the students.

He noted that the influx of milk already was reduced, but voiced confidence that summer employees would get two or three months of work from the plant.

The company is providing work for seven college and high school students.

The Simmons Company, Juvenile Products Division, reports a 65 per cent decrease in the number of summer employees. Gordon Reidenbach, a company official, said that the decrease was because the plant was experiencing less turnover of regular help.

Vacation Replacements

He said most of the people hired for the summer were replacements for vacations, but that the company did expand some production areas with student help.

The Department of Public Works has six summer employees, four college students, a school teacher, and a high school graduate. Lester O'Neil, acting director of public works, said this was about the same number of workers as last year.

Glass Fab. Inc., another plastics company, reports a minor decrease in summer employees, from three to two, and one on a part-time basis.

Art Olinger, plant manager, credits the decrease to an increase in full-time employment.

Citywide Program

Work Search for Youth Continues

NEW LONDON — The search continues throughout the city for JOY (Job Opportunities for Youth), with more than 70 students signed up for jobs.

Mrs. Edward Demming, coordinator of the non-profit program, stated that the employment situation was "not as good as it could be." She noted that several youngsters were finding part-time jobs through the program, but added that many more jobs, part-time or full-time, still were needed.

"The youngsters are looking for jobs, and are willing to work," Mrs. Demming stated.

Applicants Placed Several applicants have been placed on such jobs as tutoring, house cleaning, lawn mowing, and part-time farm work. Mrs. Demming indicated that farmers looking for help during haying and harvesting could contact her, and she would supply the names of students willing to work.

"The young people can help out where there is an employee sick or on vacation, too," she stated.

Young people, 18 years and older, who are looking for work, should contact Mrs. Demming. She noted that many of the people looking for employes want 18-year olds and up for the work available.

Temporary Jobs She said that any work would be accepted for possible placement, and emphasized that part-time and temporary jobs were needed just as much as full time work.

Employers contacting her will get the names of several young people available for work. They can then contact the prospects, arrange wages and hours, and do their own hiring.

Mrs. Demming asks that employers and employees contact her so that she has a record of who is working, and on what job.

Any employers with work of any type can contact Mrs. Demming by calling 932-4818.

Commission To Initiate Water Study

The Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission has been allocated $10,742 by the State Department of Natural Resources for a hydrological-environmental quality control program.

Extensive water testing of selected polluted streams is included in the program as well as streamflow measurements, flood information studies and an analysis of water distribution throughout the Northeastern region.

An inventory and analysis of water and natural resources for the Waupaca Area Council of Governments is another of the projects planned for fiscal 1971. Gerald L. Paul, chief hydrologist, will direct the program, with assistance from Harlan Kiesow, technical assistant, and Bud Harris, biologist.

Three streams in Outagamie County identified as polluted in the commission's recent report—Black Creek, the Shiocton River and Bear Creek—will be studied for remedial measures.

Hilbert Soldier Is Wounded In Cambodia

HILBERT — Spec. 4 James Leitner was wounded in action in Cambodia on June 11, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Leitner.

The message said that Leitner was wounded in the left knee by a fragment while at a high defensive position. The wound was not serious, his parents were informed, and he was treated and returned to duty.

Leitner, a 1969 graduate of Hilbert High School, enlisted in the U.S. Army Engineer Corps in June, 1969, and spent four months in Vietnam before seeing action in Cambodia.

Drug Sale Brings Sentence

WAUPACA — John J. Johnson, 18, Iola, who was charged with the sale of marijuana last December was given a three-year suspended sentence to the Wisconsin State Prison Monday, and was placed on three years' probation.

Waupaca County Court branch 1, Judge Wendell McHenry, who had ordered a presentence investigation by the Department of Social Services, set the conditions of the probation to include weekends in the Waupaca County Jail. He is to pay all court costs.

Beginning June 20, Johnson will report to the county jail at 8 a.m. each Saturday and be confined until 6 p.m. Sunday. The weekend confinements are to continue through Sept. 13.

Johnson, a student at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was arrested Dec. 16, 1969, by sheriff's department officials after the arrests Dec. 13 and 15 of Robert Paske, 18, Scandinavia, and Darrell Remington, 18, Iola. Both youths in statements to the sheriff's investigator, stated that they had purchased marijuana from Johnson.

Johnson, represented by court-appointed attorney Edward Hart, Waupaca, pleaded guilty to the charge of selling marijuana when he appeared before McHenry April 3.

Marijuana, Hashish According to the testimony at that time, he had brought six "bids" of marijuana and one ounce of hashish into the Iola-Scandinavia and Stevens Point area for resale.

Johnson has been free on $2,500 bond. The penalty for the sale of marijuana to anyone under the age of 21 years in prison nor more than 25 years for the first offense.

Before placing the youth on probation, McHenry told Johnson that he had carefully weighed the academic record he has maintained at the University of Wisconsin, considered the fact that he had never been in serious difficulty with the law and his conduct previous to and subsequent to the arrest.

The magistrate promised no clemency in his court if probation is violated.

Shiocton Pupils Clean Up Park

SHIOCTON — Students in Mrs. Theresa Hesack's fifth grade at the elementary school recently cleaned up the park near the library and fire station.

This is the second year that Mrs. Hesack's room has cleaned the park as part of a citizenship project. It was scheduled during the school term but rainy weather forced postponement.

The pupils raked the park, cut the grass, trimmed around the building and trees, painted some of the playground equipment and planted flowers in front of the library.

After the work was completed, a baseball game was played and workers had a picnic lunch.

Working on the project were Carol Becker, Thomas Beyer, Sandra Burr, Susan Dey, Steven Ehlers, Jean Elliot, Deborah Hall, Elaine Hooymann, Beverly Kirehmer, Francis Larson, Wayne Meisenhelder, Ricky Riehl, Dawn Roloff, Donna Schroth, Ricky Schwandt, Patsy Schorming, Kevin Surprise, Karen Theisen and James Tiekler.

Paske and Remington were arraigned on Dec. 15, and placed under $5,000 property bond. On May 11, both were placed on two years' probation to the Department of Social Services in county court branch 1.

Paske pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. Remington's charge was reduced from sale of marijuana to possession of marijuana and he entered a plea of guilty. Both youths started spending six consecutive weekends in the Waupaca County Jail on June 6. They were ordered to pay court costs.

Summer Art Class Offered

NEW LONDON Pupils From Sixth Grade Up Eligible for Course

NEW LONDON — Incoming sixth graders will have the opportunity to participate in the summer art course offered by the school system.

The class, under the direction of Jack Wohlt, senior high art instructor, meets at the senior high school every Tuesday and Thursday from 8 to 10 a.m. It is available to all students from new sixth graders through senior high.

Students wishing to join the class can contact the business office of the senior high before Thursday or attend Thursday's session at 8 a.m.

Students will not need any art supplies at the first meeting.

The class is taught on an individual basis, with the instructor aiding students in their individual field of interest.

Joe Walker To be Given FFA Award

WAUPACA — Joe Walker, Waupaca County Agent, is among those receiving the honorary Wisconsin Farmer Degree at the Future Farmers of America 41st annual convention this week at Green Lake.

The award is given to individuals who have made an "outstanding contribution" to Wisconsin agriculture and the FFA. Walker holds the honorary chapter Farmer degree from the Waupaca, Manawa and New London FFA chapters. He also received the distinguished service award from the Waupaca FFA this past March.

County agricultural agent since 1958, Walker currently is president of the Wisconsin Extension Workers.

Shiocton Chief Enters County Sheriff Race

Philip M. Calkins, 41, who was named police chief at Shiocton in March, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Outagamie County.

Calkins, who served on the Beloit Police Department for seven years, was a salesman in Appleton and Black Creek before becoming Shiocton chief. He has lived in the county for eight years.

He is an Air Force veteran of the Korean War and is scoutmaster of the Shiocton Boy Scouts.

Calkins is married and has five children. They live at rural Black Creek.

Legion Installs New Officers At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Dr. Harold Laatsch was installed as commander of the Tilleson-Strehlow-Klitz American Legion Post last week.

Other new officers installed by district Commander Robert Frautschy are Casimir Mijal, first vice commander; Eli Stickney, second vice commander; Richard Hoffman, third vice commander; Gene Ashenbrenner, fourth vice commander; Roger Metzger, finance officer; William Collier, adjutant; and John Fandrey, sergeant-at-arms.

The new pastor will live in Plover and also serve the Methodist churches there and in Buena Vista.

The transfers were announced at the annual conference of the Wisconsin United Methodist Church.

Clintonville Cub Scouts State Olympic Games

CLINTONVILLE — The Olympics of Cub Scout Pack 28 of Christus Lutheran Church will be at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the junior high football field on East Waupaca Street.

In case of bad weather, the event will be postponed until the following evening.

All participants will receive Olympic ribbons, and six trophies will be awarded to the first three winners in two age groups. Winners will be determined on a point system based on overall achievements.

There will be six events including the high jump, run, long jump, basketball, shooting, baseball throw, 220-yard dash, and 60-yard dash. Mathias O. Gunn, New London, is the High Priest of the Clintonville chapter.

Teachers Practice Art Techniques at Shiocton Clinic

SHIOCTON — A workshop for elementary teachers on art materials and use is being conducted at Shiocton Elementary School through July 3.

The purpose of the workshop is to provide broad technical knowledge in elementary level art and to increase teachers' confidence in their ability to handle and work with materials.

Participants hope to relate the studio experience of the workshop to grade school use of materials, planning and enlarging upon presently accepted programs by experimenting with different approaches and ideas.

Media to be used have been based on the specific needs and interests of the 34 teachers enrolled in the course. The instructor is Dr. Frank Girard.

2 Charter Members of Clintonville Masons Honored in Ceremony

CLINTONVILLE — Two charter members of the local chapter, Royal Arch Masons, were presented 50-year certificates and gold pins Monday evening in a ceremony at the Masonic Temple by Frank K. Campbell, Rhinelander, Grand High Priest of the State of Wisconsin.

Honored were Arthur A. Giersbach and Elmer J. Lang, both Clintonville. Giersbach was exalted in the Shawano Chapter including the high jump, run, long jump, basketball, shooting, baseball throw, 220-yard dash, and 60-yard dash. Mathias O. ELDERON — The annual horse show sponsored by the Elderon Boot and Saddle Club will be held Sunday, with trophies awarded in mallet class events, rodeo and all gymkhana competition.

The show is open to riders in the central Wisconsin area.

Morning events will begin at 9 a.m. and afternoon events at 1 p.m. The show will be at Sibley's Arena, three miles southwest of Wittenberg.

Reginald Bodart, De Pere, will judge the races. James Godin has been appointed show chairman. Refreshments will be available throughout the noon hour.

Church School Slated For Royalton, Lebanon

LEBANON — A religious school for elementary students of St. Bridget's Catholic Church, Royalton, and St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Lebanon, will be conducted June 15-20.

The sisters will spend the evenings with the adults in home sessions. The second graders will make their first Holy Communion on Sunday, June 21.

Symco '9' Stays Undefeated in BABA 'South'

Scandinavia Tops New London While Waupaca Also Wins

MARION — Symco remained undefeated in the south-central division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association Sunday as it edged Buena Vista, 5-4.

In other action in the loop, Waupaca downed Lanark, 12-3; Scandinavia beat New London, 9-5, and Weyauwega won a forfeit over Rosholt.

A bases-loaded hit batsman in the bottom of the ninth ended the game at Symco. Ken Groholski singled to start the inning. Dan Steinbach was safe on an error. Larry Luch: walked and Lowell Stevenson was hit by a pitch.

Symco scored a run in the first and two in the third.

Tallies in Sixth
Buena Vista tallied in the sixth on a home run by Don Turzinski and chalked up three in the third on a three-run homer by Joe Dernbach.

Frank Leischow was the winning pitcher, allowing five hits. Dernbach was the loser on a seven-hit performance.

Groholski, Steinbach and Stevenson had two each for the winners.

Scandinavia gathered 13 hits in its win over New London while the losers collected only five. Scandinavia had two errors in New London's four. Ron winners, four RBI and scored four times.

Keith Winters and Mark Helgeson had two hits each and Wayne Skowen had a pair and two RBI.

Randy Strohmeyer and Charley Hoffman had two hits each for New London and Jim Crane had a triple. Strohmeyer, who was relieved by Greg Baehman, was the loser.

Seven Runs in Second
Waupaca pounded out 14 hits, scoring seven runs in the second, inning highlighted by Gary Davis' grand slam homer, in its win over Lanark. It scored in nearly every inning — getting one in the fourth, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and another in the eighth. Lanark scored a run in the third, seventh and eighth innings.

Ken Tappa was the winning pitcher, scattering six hits. Paul Groshek, first of three Lanark hurlers, was the loser.

Gary Johanknecht and Dan Peterson had three hits each for Waupaca. Bob Halbeck had two for the losers.

Games Sunday will have Weyauwega (3-3) at Symco (5-0); New London (1-4) at Buena Vista (2-1); Waupaca (4-1) at Scandinavia (5-1) and Lanark (2-3) will win on forfeit over Rosholt.

Eland Drops First Game in BABA 'North'

MARION — Rain cut into only one game in the Badger Amateur Baseball Association northern division Sunday after two weeks of bad weather as Almon handed Eland its first loss 8-5. Wittenberg topped Birnamwood, 4-2, and the Hatley at Elderon game was postponed due to wet grounds.

Birnamwood outhit Wittenberg 11-8 but couldn't score. The winning pitcher was Jerry Aaonsen and the loser Dave Resch. Leif Larsen homered for the winners.

Mike Zienerl was the winning pitcher for Almon, allowing seven hits. Bob Stanke gave up nine hits and was the loser for Eland.

Games next week will have Wittenberg (2-2) at Aniwa (0-3), Eland (4-1) at Hatley (2-0), Elderon (1-2) at Almon (3-0) and Birnamwood (0-4) idle.

WALPACA — The Waupaca County School for the Mentally Retarded will start sessions at 9:30 a.m. June 23 here at the Methodist Church.

Vacation School at Shiocton Draws 22; Picnic, Program Held

SHIOCTON — The vacation Bible school of the First Congregational Church, attended by 22 students, ended its one-week session Friday with a picnic for students and parents.

Following the noon lunch a program was presented, with the handiwork of each child displayed.

Theme of the school was "Proving God's Promise." A contest was held in which the students were divided into passers and two airlines to see which could make the most miles and win a prize.

Mileage was given for attendance, bringing Bibles and learning Bible verses. Mileage deducted for children being noisy and not paying attention in class.

The nursery class was taught by Scheryl Carter and Debbie Barker, beginners by Barbara Kennedy and Mrs. George Kennedy, primary by Patty Kennedy and Colleen Immel, juniors by Diane Carter and teens by Pastor Jerry Matt. Mrs. Jerry Matt was the pianist.

Small Fishing Hole Found In Neenah's Sewer Lines

BY DAVE JENKINS
News-Record Staff Writer

NEENAH — Some preliminary weekend fishing in several sewer lines near the Fox River channel has turned up only one leak large enough to possibly account for the fish which are finding their way into the sewage treatment plant.

Wayne Bryan, public works director, told the finance committee Monday night that his department and American Pipe Service, Minneapolis, had found three leaks where clear water is getting into the sanitary sewer system.

get in, Bryan said. Otherwise, infiltration by 1972 "the fish are probably coming from Menasha," the public works director said.

The Badger Globe line has caused many problems in the past and may have to be abandoned, Bryan said.

Mueller, indicating his support for Bryan's efforts, told the aldermen, "If we find out the problem, then we can ask our sister community to do the same."

Clear Water

Both Neenah and Menasha are under orders by the State Department of Natural Resources to eliminate clear water

The search for leaks in the sewer lines themselves represents an attack on only one possible source of infiltration.

The other is foundation drains hooked into the sewer system, which Bryan has consistently maintained is the main source of the problem.

Ramada Sidewalk

In other business, the finance committee instructed Bryan and Mayor Roman V. Hauser to work out an agreement with R. I. Corp., Ramada Inn developers, over reconstruction of sidewalks around the hotel.

R. I. Corp. had asked the city to give up an old claim to a 5-foot strip of land on three sides of the development, used for sidewalk and sewer purposes, in order to clear up the firm's title to the Ramada Inn property.

City Atty Duane Philis saw no problem with such an action, if an agreement over who was to pay for sidewalk reconstruction was worked out first.

Normally, the city and abutting property owners split the costs 50-50, a formula which the committee suggested should be followed here, but R. I. had suggested the city pay the entire cost, which Bryan estimated at $3,750.

Methodists Pass Antiwar Resolution

State Conference Rejects Criticism Of Arms to Israel

GREEN LAKE (AP) — The Wisconsin conference of the United Methodist Church adopted an anti-Vietnam resolution during its weekend convention, but rejected a criticism of proposed U.S. arms shipments to Israel.

Bishop Ralph T. Alton of Madison told the group's annual meeting that clergymen lose some effectiveness as civil leaders when they contribute to disruption or adopt "judgmental resolutions."

"You don't become a peace-maker by violence and protest against war," he said. "You don't become an instrument of redemptive love of God by hatefully denouncing anyone who disagrees with your convictions about race relations or family planning or pollution."

The conference voted Sunday against a resolution which described arms sales to Israel as "an insipid act of war."

Delegates voted 338-133 Saturday in favor of a resolution which demands "that Congress exercise its constitutional power to end the war" in Vietnam.

The resolution endorsed a proposed Senate amendment, which would cut off appropriations for the Vietnam conflict after Dec. 31.

Desk Sets, Inscribed "For long and devoted service to education," were presented recently to three Wittenberg-Birnawood district teachers on their retirement. The teachers and their total years of service are, from the left, Mrs.

Bernice Juhl and Mrs. Gladys Kaiser, both 27 years, and James Koutnik, 43 years. Michael Arnold, right, president of the Education Association made the presentations during the evening banquet. (Coxles Photo)

MANAWA — The junior band consisting of 70 sixth, seventh and eighth grade students under the direction of Douglas Erickson, will present a summer concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in the junior high field house.

Soloists featured on the program will be Nancy Patri, flute; Cindy Clappes, clarinet; Dan Fritz, cornet; and Ray Anderson, snare drum.

Police & Fire Beat

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer rescue squad was called about 4:05 p.m. Sunday to assist a motorist who had become ill.

The squad took the driver, Mrs. Carmen Bruemmer, Schofield, to Community Hospital for attention.

Mrs. Bruemmer drove off the road on U. S. 45 near Bear Creek Corners when she became ill.

5 Million Gallons

"They account for maybe 400,000 to 500,000 gallons a day but what we are looking for is in the neighborhood of five million gallons," Bryan said.

He told the committee, in response to a request by Chairman Paul Mueller, that he could bring in cost estimates for a complete check of city sewer leaks in two weeks after American Pipe Services has completed a pilot study.

The cost to date of the probe, which may represent the start of a comprehensive attack on clear water infiltration and subsequent overloading of treatment plant capacity, is under $1,000, Bryan said.

Pilot Program

Bryan had been authorized by the public works committee last week to go ahead with the pilot program, and the finance committee Monday night promised continued backing, at least until Bryan can come up with estimates for a complete inspection.

Probing during the weekend showed leaks in three interceptor lines — one each under the Neenah Paper and Gader Globe mills of Kimberly Clark Corp. — and a third in a line only two years old. K-C had contacted him about one of the leaks, Bryan said.

'City' Embarrassment

Bryan termed the leak in the new line somewhat of an "embarrassment" for the city, noting it had been televised and found acceptable two years ago upon completion. Possibly the weight of Soo Line switching operations had ruptured it, he guessed.

The leak in the line under Badger Globe was the only one large enough so that there was a "remote" chance fish could

Calumet County and Redistricting

For decades Calumet County has enjoyed an unusual distinction in the political organization of the state as it was permitted by successive legislative reapportionment acts to compose a single assembly district in spite of the fact that it steadily increased its political advantage as a consequence.

During the decade of the 1960's, for example, the inhabitants of the county had approximately twice the legislative force of those in other assembly districts, because the 1960 census credited it with about 22,000 inhabitants, which was a little more than half of the population of the typical state assembly district.

Now the new census returns tentatively credit the county with about 27,500 residents, while if the population of the state is evenly divided for assembly representation purposes in the next reapportionment, the average district will have perhaps 44,000 inhabitants or more. It has been assumed that Calumet County could not be attached to another adjacent territory for assembly representation because of a clause in the state constitution that seemed to prohibit the crossing of county lines for assembly districting purposes.

We use the word "assumed," because the constitutional phrasing is not precise. Now the legislative reference bureau at Madison recalls that the interpretation that has given Calumet County its peculiar advantage for so long is largely the result of a state supreme court decision in 1892.

But the reference bureau staff also notes that the United States Supreme Court has actively involved itself in the equal representation cause in recent times, and doubtless would knock out the Wisconsin county line rule if a test were to be arranged.

Says the bureau: "That rule, of doubtful validity under the Wisconsin constitution from its inception, is in any case superseded by the recent interpretations in federal courts of the 'equal protection of the laws' guarantee under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

If the bureau is correct, and we see no cause to doubt it, State Rep. Gervase Hepner, the incumbent Calumet County member of the Wisconsin assembly, and prospective opponents who may desire to represent the county in the future, may wisely begin to cultivate voters in some of the immediately adjacent territory, as well as those among the 27,500 residents in Calumet County. For there can be no doubt about it. The "one man, one vote" idea, and its literal application, are here to stay and the ambiguous position of Calumet County probably cannot be maintained much longer.

100,000 Gallons of Germs

We don't want to get all up-tight about the threat of the American military in this country. But sometimes we wonder.

After President Richard Nixon renounced the use of bacteriological warfare under any conditions, there arose the problem of how to dispose of what is described as 100,000 gallons of germ compound residues stocked at the Pine Bluff arsenal near Little Rock, Arkansas. Somebody in command, who must not have read about the concern over the pollution of our water supplies, decided the best place would be the Arkansas River. The material would first be sterilized, mixed with a great deal of water and put in a holding pond for a while before being sent down the river.

Fortunately both water quality and public health officials raised warning signals. They recalled that a mere cupful of anthrax germs dumped by the Army in the Utah desert fifteen years later was cited as a cause of death of wildlife. They also brought up the time that chemicals at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver were put into a holding pond but reacted to form a herbicide that damaged farmland. Perhaps the germs in this latest batch would be completely sterilized but other incidents indicate that there is not really enough sound knowledge about the materials to be sure.

The Army's alternative plan is to chlorinate the sterilized material, put it through a standard sewage process to break down oxidizing constituents and evaporate the stuff until a reasonably dry sludge is formed. This would be buried here and there on the grounds of the arsenal. But there is still concern that subsequent rains would wash it into the streams with unknown results.

Once again, who authorized the development and production of these materials that are proving so difficult to get rid of? And are there sufficient safeguards now to prevent such stockpiling in the future?

Basic Needs in Treating Crime

One of the proposals from the office of the Attorney General to Congress to try to cut the ever increasing rate of crime, particularly the violent ones, is a system of preventive detention for up to sixty days when a trial cannot be held immediately and when the judge believes that such detention is warranted in the light of the accused's record or background.

The measure is aimed at preventing more crimes by the individual while he is awaiting trial and while psychologically he may even believe he isn't risking much in committing another theft, mugging, rape or other assault. A number of cases of such occurrences have been cited by advocates of the legislation. Some criminals clearly are not prepared to live in society without threats to the person or property of others.

But James Bennett, director of the Federal Prisons System for 27 years, has warned that preventive detention might "create far more crime than it will prevent" under certain circumstances.

Mr. Bennett told a congressional committee that the legislation as proposed was wide enough to permit such detention even of a boy who steals a $10 radio. If such a juvenile is put into a federal prison he is more likely than ever to develop into a hardened criminal. Mr. Bennett, who ought to know, called such incarceration "soul-destroying."

Few can argue about the conditions in many of our prisons which put together the young offender and the amoral hardened criminal and the effect upon the young.

There has been a considerable amount of evidence in recent years about the high incidence of homosexuality, including forcible rape of new inmates, the brutality by inmates rather than by guards, the generally dehumanizing effects of prison life. There is probably no way in which all the abuses can be corrected but the House Judiciary Committee recommendation that 25 per cent of appropriations for the Law Enforcement Assistance Agency be used for prison renovation and corrections and parole program is a start.

The immensity of the problem of coping with the young offenders cannot be overestimated. We need an extensive program of counseling, of juvenile detention, of psychiatric care. If preventive detention is adopted, judges must use the regulation with extreme care so as not to increase the crime load rather than cut it back.

There are also doubts about whether the courts would uphold the constitutionality of such a provision or whether it is a violation of the 14th Amendment insistence upon due process as well as the unwritten but long-time accepted theory that a man is innocent until found guilty. Rates of crime may warrant unprecedented methods. But in the long run we need better and more trained policing, quicker court procedures, and a better means of trying to keep first offenders from becoming hardened criminals and regular inmates of our prisons.

U.S. Intervention in Cambodia Was Inevitable, Writer Thinks

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

PHNOM PENH — What does it profit? is the question raised back in the United States about the Cambodian intervention. But the question that arises on the spot here in Cambodia is: was it avoidable?

The most likely answer is that only highly imaginative international leadership could have headed off American intervention in this country. There was required far more imaginative leadership than exists in the world today. What made it so hard to fend off intervention lies chiefly in the nature of the former ruler of this country, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. He treated Cambodia as a personal fief, intervening almost by caprice in the smallest details of public and private business.

Royal Rainmaker
These high-handed ways did not pose much of a problem with the basic peasant population of this country. Rural folk still seem to regard Sihanouk as a kind of royal rainmaker. But it was different with the civil servants, the Buddhist religious leaders, and the young people. These, having gained independence from France in the Indochina settlement of 1954, wanted a role in running their country. Sihanouk was able to keep

'Soft' Concrete Collapses Under Vehicle Impact

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Vermiculite concrete cushions, so soft that they can be dented with a thumb, are being designed for highway retaining walls and bridge abutments.

Research engineers, D. L. Ivey, Eugene Buth, and T. J. Hirsch of Texas A. and M. University's Transportation Institute developed the cushions to collapse under vehicle impact.

The program was funded by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads with the aim of reducing traffic deaths caused by cars striking existing rigid obstacles. Crash tests at speeds over 60 m.p.h. have verified the functioning of the cushion's ability to prevent serious consequences when a vehicle crashes into a concrete barrier.

Germany near the Village of Hammertshausen.

Mrs. L. I. Gashel was seated as regent of the Neenah Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a luncheon at the summer cottage of Mrs. H. C. Schultz.

them in town only by coming on as the indispensable bulwark of Cambodian independence.

But assuring Cambodian independence involved Sihanouk in one of the world's most far-out diplomatic balancing acts. The greatest threat to Cambodia came from her closest neighbor—

Kraft

South Vietnam. So against Saigon, Sihanouk balanced North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Hence the Communist sanctuaries on the border and the supply line through the port of Sihanoukville.

But Hanoi was also a threat, so Sihanouk turned to the Chinese. And against the Chinese, he called in the Russians. And as counterweight to the Russians, he looked to the United States. And to avoid becoming dependent upon Washington, he flirted with Paris.

This tangled skein of mutually exclusive connections was spun out for a long time. As late as last March, Sihanouk was writing for the French magazine Preuves an article calling for a Communist takeover in South Vietnam with a neutralist Cambodia aided by the United States.

When trouble came, it came here at home. Fed up with personal rule, the administrators, religious leaders, and young people of the capital turned on Sihanouk. They applied pressure to a relatively pro-Sihanouk cabinet under Prime Minister Lon Nol. Under their pressure, the Lon Nol cabinet gave way. On March 18 a new, Republican government was formed, with Lon Nol continuing as Prime Minister and Sirik Matak, an anti-Sihanouk member of the royal family, as deputy prime minister.

System Collapsed
With Sihanouk out, his system collapsed. The new rulers in Phnom Penh preferred to substitute for his deal with Hanoi their own deal with Washington and Saigon. As a Frenchman long resident here put it:

"They knew that Laos had received $10 million in American aid for only two million people. With seven million people they thought they could do much better. In fact, Sihanouk had been telling them just that for months." That is how the new government, in its very first act, closed down the Communist supply lines through Sihanoukville.

The Vietnamese Communists were not much more faithful to the old bargain. They wrote off the new government here in Phnom Penh as very weak. Perhaps wrongly, Hanoi thought of Sihanouk as the real power in this country. There were a few days of negotiations between the Vietnamese Communists and the new government in Phnom Penh. But on March 26, a couple of days after Sihanouk came over to their side, the Communists broke off the negotiations and set in motion efforts to overthrow the republican regime here.

Diplomacy in the fashion of, say, Bismarck could perhaps have put together some replacement for the Sihanouk system. The French had a stab at it with their proposal, early in April, for a new conference on all of Indochina. The Russians were interested, as witness the curious statement of support for the French proposal by their U.S. Ambassador Jacob Malik. And President Nixon expressed his interest to the Russians.

But these efforts were obscure in their bearing and hard to fathom—the work of sleepwalkers. They lacked the compelling force necessary to hold together what was coming asunder. The rupture sought by both Phnom Penh and Hanoi took place.

Nixon Waited Briefly
With the Communists on the move against Phnom Penh, with Phnom Penh calling for help and Saigon redoubling the pleas, it would have been a miracle of self-denial for Washington to resist long. In fact, President Nixon did wait for several things—for Cambodia to give a green light to intervention, for the Saigon regime to prove itself in border forays against the Communist sanctuaries on March 20 and April 14, for American public opinion to be tested in his own speech of April 20.

By the time he moved, the conclusion was already foregone. The entry of South Vietnamese and American troops into Cambodia was in my judgement—and I say this as someone who urged preventive measures against intervention from the moment of the fall of Sihanouk—inevitable.

That does not mean, of course, that intervention necessarily pays off. The moving finger of inexorable fate writes some bad scripts. And the real value of the invasion can only be determined by a careful weighing of military gains against political losses.

But one thing is clear—even granted that the intervention was inevitable. The fact that obscure events in this remote country could entail a major military move by American forces is yet another indication of how far over-committed the United States is in Southeast Asia.

Democratic Stand On Sex, Morals May Embarrass Leaders

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — No one who pretends to study Wisconsin politics with ordinary diligence will deny that ethnic influences and, to a lesser degree, religious affiliation, remain important in the steering of votes at the polls and in the success or failure of candidates for public place.

When Patrick Lucey, the candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, addressed the convention of his party at Green Bay, he emphasized that one of the assets of Jack Olson, the presumed Republican nominee, is the fact that he has a "good name."

Lucey was not describing Olson's reputation or his credit rating. He referred to his Scandinavian antecedents, as so strongly suggested by his family name, and the demonstrable fact that in this state bearers of such names have tended to run well in those big districts where there are substantial blocs of voters of Scandinavian ancestry.

Realism Is Practiced
The same unblinking realism is practiced by the politicians, when they can, with respect to the religious identification of principal candidates and the religious composition of the Wisconsin electorate.

No doubt the consideration is not as important or demanding today as in earlier times, but practical politicians try for a "mix" on their tickets, with respect to their religious associations. No party would if it could avoid it have an all Protestant or all Catholic ticket. The fact that Jews are so infrequently nominated or elected to public office reflects their minority status.

What follows is offered without bias and with a realization that public opinion during recent years has veered more drastically on issues of sex and morals than in any other period of American history, in all probability.

Church Is Conservative

Yet the fact is that the Roman Catholic Church maintains basically its historically conservative position on such matters, that Wisconsin has a high ratio of Catholic residents — considering the ratios in most other states — and that the Democratic convention has taken some positions that may very likely be compromising to the party's candidates on some of these issues.

It has asked, in effect, for the legalization of birth control, for the legalization of abortion, for the right of any person to be sterilized at his own request, and has proposed that "the state must recognize the privacy of sexual acts between consenting adults and repeal all laws regulating such acts," which is a polite way of approving homosexual conduct.

It needs to be emphasized here that this reporter does not question the earnestness and conviction of the men and women who wrote these proposals and gave them approval at the convention.

But there is serious doubt that many of the candidates of the party, whoever the nominees may turn out to be in the September primaries, will campaign on such issues. Surely their party friends in the legislature have not done so.

Turns Question Aside

During the convention one of Pat Lucey's principal fund raisers, organization leaders and philosophical advisers held what he called a "briefing" session for the writers attending. Like Lucey, he cautioned that Olson will be stronger at the polls than many Democratic partisans want to admit, again obviously alluding to his Scandinavian pull.

The Lucey aide was then asked about the possible repercussions in some religious sectors about the articles on sex and morality in the party's platform and resolutions. Is it not likely that some other groups will view such propositions askance, and the party ticket also? He dismissed the question airily. The voluntary convention is not binding, he said, and the candidates will write their own programs.

Yet in the minds of some of them, it may be guessed, there is doubt about the wisdom of some of these propositions, even if they turn out to be only windy rhetoric.

Strictly Personal

Gremlin Didn't Make It as Slang Word

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Apropos my recent piece on the new American Motors car, "Gremlin," which I suggested was a somewhat negative name for an automobile, a letter from the company's

Harris

Director of Merchandising seeks to set me straight.

I wrote, in a friendly fashion, the "Gremlin" seems an odd name for a car, since the word entered the language during World War II, meaning a pesky little imp that caused malfunctions and motor trouble in vehicles.

Well, it turns out that the company had a "name study" made, and could find no one under the age of 40 who made the association between "Gremlin" and the World War II trouble-makers. Moreover, of the over-40 group, only 7 per cent recalled the negative implication of that little imp.

I am willing to take American Motors word for it, but it surprises me (and probably dates me) that so useful a neologism as "gremlin" has almost completely faded from the modern-day vocabulary. I would have expected it to find a more permanent place in language, especially since it seemed to fill a real need.

Actually, most neologisms and slang words stay around long enough to become permanent, if they express something that has never before had a good equivalent. Prof. Mario Pei, the linguist, once looked up a "New Words Section" of an old dictionary, and found that 90 per cent of the words and phrases had survived 20 years later.

Among these were "cheesecake" (for semi-nude photographs), "corny" (for old-fashioned and trite), "wolf" (for a philanderer), "whodunit" (for a mystery story), as well as "moppet," "gimmick," "snafu," "stooze" — and "gremlin!"

Earlier neologisms that had managed to survive were words we hardly think of as "slang" any more — like "blimp" and "comeback" and "getaway" and "joy ride" and "wangle" and "strip tease" and "soap opera" and "joke box." And, surprisingly enough, not too many decades ago, such words as "strenuous," "spurious," "clumsy," and "bogus" were not considered Standard English. ("Bogus," by the way, has been almost entirely replaced by "phony," except in Great Britain.)

If "gremlin" has failed to make it in the permanent vocabulary — along with another World War II neologism, "Quisling," for traitor — it is one of the few coinages that have been lost in our time. The rate at which slang becomes absorbed into the mainstream of language is equalled only by the rate at which we forget the words we discard.

Lien Claim Provision Leads To Problems When Filing

BY THE WISCONSIN BAR The principal problem has arisen because some individuals are unaware of the provision that requires a 30-day notice of credit rating which the filing of under the state's Construction Lien Law has apparently caused work done or materials furnished in some instances. Habermann pointed out that this 30-day notice serves as a warning to an owner before a lien claim is filed against him. This allows him an opportunity to avoid the adverse effects on the title to his land and on his credit rating which the filing of He also noted that it is the duty of the mortgage lender to make reasonable inquiry as to whether notice of intent to file a lien claim has been given and intention to file.

authorizes the lender to withhold payments whenever the prime contractor has failed to give the required notice. The term "prime contractor" replaced the term "contractor" and differs from the former law in that it makes it more clear that it is to encompass only those persons who deal directly with the owner. In the case of a construction project where the mechanical contracts, such as electrical and plumbing, are bid separately, each successful bidder would be the prime contractor for his particular segment of the construction.

The present Construction Lien Law was passed by the 1967 Legislature and constituted a major revision of the former law.

Bust of Truman Given to Library

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri National Guard presented a bronze bust of former President Harry S. Truman to the Truman Library in a Flag Day ceremony Sunday.

It was the 65th anniversary of Truman's enlistment in the National Guard.

The bust depicts Truman as a young captain of a field artillery battery in World War I.

Savings After Taxes Help Recoup Losses

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you've accumulated some painful losses in stocks and bonds this year — and who hasn't in these miserable markets? — you can use this period to achieve some exceedingly valuable tax savings.

A time of steeply depressed prices is when you, the alert, tax-sophisticated investor, should consider switches "and sales which will, in the words of Prentice-Hall, "nail down solid cash gains in the form of after-paper losses to give you your wash sale rule does not apply to gains tax-free. (Short-term gains means "held not more than six months.") tax savings. The widespread idea that there's little point in switching in a declining market because "just about everything is down" is away wide of the mark."

But be warned: Unless you make your tax motivated switches against the background of your entire investment portfolio and long-term goals, you easily can make costly errors.

Now with this warning in mind, here are five ways in which you can profitably use your potential losses on stocks and bonds.

Gains Tax Free
—Take whatever short-term ing the very same securities at then take enough short-term prices at which you sold. The use available long-term capital

With a higher price base, your tax status will be vastly improved. Your investment position will be unchanged with the one exception that your holding period will start all over again.

—Offset your fully taxed ordinary income with short-term capital losses up to $1,000 in this current tax year. Make sure your excess capital losses are short-term so you can use them dollar-for-dollar against $1,000 of your ordinary income. Long-term losses are only half as effective: it takes $2,000 of long-term loss to offset $1,000 of ordinary income.

Capital Losses
—Carry over any unused capital losses indefinitely.

Short-term losses can be used to offset (a) short-term capital gains, (b) long-term capital gains, and (c) ordinary income up to $1,000 per year. Long-term losses offset (a) long-term gains, (b) short-term gains, and (c) on a $2-for-$1 basis up to $1,000 of ordinary income per year.

—Now improve your tax basis by following the tax strategy outlined in point two above. You will reinstate your investment position by repurchasing term losses even if you rarely take capital gains."

For maximum tax savings, highway committee to find a replacement.

losses to offset long-term or short-term capital gains. And use short-term losses to offset fully taxable ordinary income as well as short-term gains you think it wise to take.

To illustrate: if you use a $1,000 short-term loss to offset $1,000 in long-term gains, you're wiping out a gain taxed at only half your regular rates. A similar loss offset against ordinary income will save you twice as much.

In sum, with tax strategy and help from your investment adviser, you can salvage major tax savings out of this blood bath. It'll actually make you feel intelligent again.

Objector Ruling Acknowledges a Nonreligious Ethic

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — In vast opposition to killing other human beings, that individuals often on their own develop objections that are as deep as those held by firm believers in the traditional God or Supreme Being.

Congress' Intent
There is some question, though, that Congress had this in mind when it specified C.O. status be granted men who "by reason of religious training and belief . . . (are) conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form."

The three dissenters, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, were certain Congress did not intend to exempt men who disclaim religious objections to war and whose views represent a purely personal code arising from philosophy, history and sociology rather than from religious training and belief.

"Our obligation in statutory construction cases is to enforce the will of Congress, not our own," White wrote.

The eighth justice, John M. Harlan, said the majority had performed a lobotomy, erasing the distinction Congress intended to make between religiously acquired beliefs and those derived mostly from politics, sociology or philosophy.

"Not as Athiest?"
Obviously uncertain about the extent of his own formal religion, Welsh today says: "I don't belong to any church, but I'm not an athiest." He also says: "Maybe you'd call me an agnostic because I leave open the question of religion; but I don't like labels."

It was enough for four justices that Welsh was sincere and steadfast in his beliefs; that they were deeply held and not a matter of expediency—that they were not adopted simply to avoid Army duty.

The four, Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall, generally liberal in their interpretations, apparently decided on a pragmatic approach.

They evidently wished to give legal recognition to the fact that formally religious people do not have a monopoly on conscientious opposition to killing other human beings, that individuals often on their own develop objections that are as deep as those held by firm believers in the traditional God or Supreme Being.

The 5-3 ruling Monday seems to fill a gap in this regard, the curious growth of ethical fervor among much of today's youth alongside a corresponding disinterest in the formal religion of their elders.

Elliot Ashton Welsh II, the Beverly Hills, Calif., commodity broker who had said he could not injure or kill another human being was reared in a religious home and attended a Christian Science Sunday School.

But he did not rest his plea for conscientious objector status on traditional religion itself. On one occasion he struck the word "religion" from his application. On another he said his antiwar beliefs were "certainly religious in the ethical sense of that word."

Dubcek Ousted By Communists

NEW YORK (AP) — Alexander Dubcek has been expelled from the Czechoslovak Communist party and dismissed as his country's ambassador to Turkey, Newsweek magazine reports in its current issue.

The magazine said Czechoslovakia's Communist party Presidium, reacting against Dubcek's ill-fated liberalization efforts of 1968 when he was the country's leader, decided upon the ouster at a stormy session last week.

Program in Georgia Summer Jobs Made Possible for Youths

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — An anonymous gift of $100,000 set the ball rolling on a city summer job program which will provide work for at least 1,000 youths—and maybe twice that many.

Mayor J. R. Allen was elated as he saw the first 200 report for duty Monday.

"We will be using most of them to improve our environment, and I don't mean picking up paper," the mayor said.

Among other things, the young workers will develop a park along the Chattahoochee River and clear land for 17 city swimming pools.

They will receive a minimum wage of $1.80 an hour.

"The economy across our nation is down, the stock market is down and nobody is going to be able to hire these kids during the summer," Allen said in an interview.

"An idle mind is the devil's workshop, and I wanted to figure out a way to put them to work."

He called together a group of business and community leaders and asked them to come up with a program.

Allen said the $100,000 anonymous donation came from several persons and that it was matched by $100,000 from the National Alliance of Businessmen.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce put up $9,400 and the city got a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant of $105,000 to finance a lunch program for the youths.

"Counting the 1,000 youths in the summer job program, we have an average of 5,922 kids in our 34 playgrounds every day, and we are going to give nearly 7,000 kids a hot lunch every day," Allen said.

The lunches will be prepared in school kitchens and hauled to the playgrounds and work sites in police paddy wagons.

"The kids will learn that cops are the good guys, not the bad guys," Allen said.

Allen said a spokesman for the National Alliance of Businessmen told him that if the city could raise another $100,000 in donations the alliance would kick in a further $100,000.

And if that happens, we can hire another 1,000 youngsters," the mayor said.

Beausoleil Sentenced to Gas Chamber

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Beausoleil, one-time member of Charles Manson's hippie-style family now on trial in the Sharon Tate murder trial, was formally sentenced to the gas chamber Monday.

Beausoleil 22 screamed as Superior Court Judge William B. Keene sentenced him.

The star witness against him, Mary Brunner, 25, another member of the Manson "family," jumped up in the courtroom and shouted she wanted to recant her testimony.

Brunner said she had been yelled.

Miss Brunner is from Madison Wis. and Eau Claire, Wis.

Keene ordered her sentenced to five days in jail for contempt of court because of the outburst.

Beausoleil was convicted of the fatal shooting last July of musician Gary Hinman, 28, at his suburban Topanga Canyon home.

Miss Brunner, who testified she was at the home at the time of the slaying, was granted immunity from prosecution.

The judge denied Beausoleil's motion for a new trial based on the girl's willingness to deny her own testimony.

The judge refused to allow Miss Brunner to take the stand again to recant, however. Only last Friday she told the court the testimony was true in a series of denials and affirmations of her own testimony.

Officials took Beausoleil to county jail where he awaited transportation to San Quentin's Death Row. His case will be automatically reviewed.

Nixon Readies Report Economic Squeeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon polished his special economic report to the nation today as reports of rising unemployment, faltering profits and high interest rates continued to mount.

One government report Monday disclosed manufacturer's profits dropped to their lowest level in 2½ years because of the economic squeeze. And a regional Federal Reserve Bank described the downturn as a mild recession.

Nixon closeted himself in his hideaway office next door to the White House Monday to work on the report, scheduled to be delivered to the nation at 11 a.m. Wednesday (CDT).

While Nixon worked in seclusion, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission reported manufacturers' after-tax profits dropped 18 per cent during the first quarter of the year.

Profits reached the lowest level in 2½ years, the agencies said in their quarterly report.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis broke with its parent Federal Reserve Board and 11 sister banks by calling the current economic downturn a recession.

The Minneapolis bank said in its monthly statistical report that Minnesota and its neighboring states are "feeling the effects of the mild recession currently in progress in the nation as many business indicators are displaying characteristics of a downturn."

A White House economist, appearing before a congressional hearing, predicted no decline in interest rates or unemployment for the remainder of the year.

Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the 5 per cent unemployment rate should continue and "rates of interest will decline but a little."

However, he said, "We believe the rate of inflation will be subsiding in this year."

The Minneapolis bank's description of the current economic situation as a mild recession is not likely to spread among other reports by federal agencies since the administration has studiously avoided using the word.

The manufacturers' profits report released Monday, however, added to the gloom of government officials who privately admit economic policies are living up to expectations.

After tax profits during the first quarter of this year were $6.9 billion on sales of $170.4 billion, the lowest profit margin since the third quarter of 1967.

Sales in the first quarter were 5 per cent above the preceding quarter, but profits dropped 14 per cent.

The heaviest impact was felt by manufacturers of durable goods: automobiles, airplanes, metal working machinery and furniture.

Profits of nondurable industries such as food and clothing dropped less than 11 per cent, from $4.2 billion to $3.7 billion.

However, he said, "We believe the rate of inflation will be subsiding in this year."

The Minneapolis bank's description of the current economic situation as a mild recession is not likely to spread among other reports by federal agencies since the administration has studiously avoided using the word.

The manufacturers' profits report released Monday, however, added to the gloom of government officials who privately admit economic policies are living up to expectations.

After tax profits during the first quarter of this year were $6.9 billion on sales of $170.4 billion, the lowest profit margin since the third quarter of 1967.

Sales in the first quarter were 5 per cent above the preceding

The Minneapolis bank said in its monthly statistical report that Minnesota and its neighboring states are "feeling the effects of the mild recession currently in progress in the nation as many business indicators are displaying characteristics of a downturn."

A White House economist, appearing before a congressional hearing, predicted no decline in interest rates or unemployment for the remainder of the year.

Herbert Stein, a member of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the 5 per cent unemployment rate should continue and "rates of interest will decline but a little."

However, he said, "We believe the rate of inflation will be subsiding in this year."

Hickel Opposes Split Operation

Single Environmental Agency Favored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel still hopes environmental problems and conservation of natural resources can be controlled by a single federal agency—despite reports President Nixon plans to separate them.

A presidential panel has recommended creating an independent "Environmental Protection Administration" and a new "Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration" in the Commerce Department.

Some sources say Nixon has decided to go ahead with that plan.

Hickel indicated in an interview, however, the decision may still be open.

"They're not creating a new agency under Commerce that I . . . Hickel began. Then, checking himself, he added, "Those are just proposals."

"We have discussed for a long time the pros and cons of having an enforcement agency," he continued, "and that's basically what we're talking about in this one agency," referring to the proposed Environmental Protection Administration.

Resources Department
Hickel has long urged creation of a unified "Department of Natural Resources and Environment" embracing government functions now scattered among several departments and agencies.

Assignment of atmospheric and oceanographic programs to another agency would deal a serious blow to that idea.

Asked whether he still hoped to win White House acceptance of his one-agency concept, Hickel said, "Yes, I think that what is happening now is part of a reorganization that can be beneficial, but in the long range there will have to be a department of natural resources and environment."

"I do not think you can separate natural resources from the environment," he said. "They're like ham and eggs."

Should the reports prove true, Hickel said, "I would do whatever had to be done" although "it wouldn't be as challenging."

Reorganization would not drive him to resign from the Cabinet, he said, unless—in terms of Interior's scope—"there weren't any great problems left to solve."

There have been consistent reports that Hickel might quit—or be fired—because of his publicly disclosed concern with Nixon administration policies, particularly relating to the nation's youth.

Unfinished Job

Hickel said he passed up the chance to run this year for governor of Alaska—the post he left in 1968 to become Interior secretary—because, "I thought there was a job to do here and it wasn't completed."

"I came down here to serve the President and I'm going to stay here as long as he needs my services and wants my services."

But he said he might want to re-enter elective politics some day.

"I've given that serious consideration," he said. "It depends on where I see I can fill a need."

UW Denied Funds For New Campuses

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A legislative funding committee Monday refused to release $150,000 for startup costs next year at University of Wisconsin campuses in Green Bay and Parkside in Kenosha County.

The action by the Board on Government Operations brought immediate warnings from UW from some source, for they Pres. Fred Harrington that in represent the salaries of special structural quality at the two aides already on school payrolls new schools would be cut—and a blast from UW Regent Pres. Bernard Ziegler of West Bend dent counselors, and other such that perhaps legislative salaries costly staff members who are should be cut if the state is needed by a school of any size short on funds.

The action by BOGO came as the administrative staff of a part of a package of UW school from its beginning, de-budget requests, and the new spite their low enrollments and campus rebuffs were triggered-subsequent high per-pupil costs by State Rep. John Shabaz, R-for such services New Berlin, who said that the final action of the com-school had done nothing to mittee directed the UW to take prove the need for the funds as much money as it can afford proposed for special spending to spend for startup purposes at needed in conjunction with the new campuses from a initial development of the $1,050,000 total in enrollment funds released by BOGO to the schools.

Shabaz admitted that a like system Monday amount had been released by the legislature's fiscal control amount, UW had asked for that the group a year ago, but said that funds, and another $60,000 for the need for the funds should be summer school, $76,400 for approved again before a similar letic scholarships, and $115,500 sum was released.

Assumed Release
UW Vice Pres. Robert Clodius signed to cover extra students said that the system assumed at the school, where enrollments that the money would be re-have hit levels above those leased automatically because of budgeted for a year ago.

Drop Programs
The BOGO action directed the that the school therefore had school to forget about the not brought the information summer session and athletic needed to justify the special program costs, and to fund the request.

scholarship request which would have added $282,600 to that program's total next year.

The program is aimed at creating 280 new scholarships a year for the system, the school is to try to get as many of the 133 scholarships given out by the legislature for athletic use first, the UW was directed, again at Shabaz's urging Rejected flatly was a request for another $152,000 for additional police force members for the Madison and Milwaukee campuses.

The actions triggered a heat-help. Persons interested can contact a jubilee steering committee member. They are Eugene Schwaller, chairman; Eugene Schuh, vice chairman; David Pennings, secretary, and David Mayer, Henry Wullerkins, Martin Roovers and Daniel Williams, advisers.

UW salaries set by the regents last week did not indicate "austerity," replied State Rep. Byron Wackett, R-Watertown. "They didn't double my salary," said Ziegler.

Red Cross Is Giving Aid to Peru Victims

The Outagamie County chapter of the American Red Cross has had numerous inquiries as to how the public can help the victims of the Peruvian earthquake.

At the present time, four American Red Cross specialists are in Peru administering a massive aid program for the thousands of victims of the disaster. Blood transfusion supplies have been rushed to the country.

Pending information from a U. S. military-medical team in the country, the Red Cross is securing large quantities of pharmaceuticals and medical supplies, assisted by the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association.

Contributions to aid the Peru relief program can be sent to the local chapter or to National Red Cross Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Welfare inquiries concerning Americans should be made to the Office of Special Consular Services, Dept. of State, Washington, D. C. Inquiries concerning Peruvians should be made to the Embassy of Peru, 1320 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Openings Remain for Appleton Y Day Camp

The Appleton YMCA day camp still has a few openings in all three periods of the program. The first of the two-week periods began Monday.

Day camp is open to all boys and girls ages 6 to 12, whether YMCA members or not. The campers meet at the "Y" each morning at 9 a.m. and from there are bused to Calumet County Park, where a wide variety of recreational activities is offered — swimming, fishing, hiking, archery and horseback riding. Day camps will be run three days each week.

Further information can be obtained from the YMCA, telephone extensions 25 or 56.

Two in Hospital, Two in Jail After Freedom Brawl

FREEDOM — A brawl late Sunday night at Ludwig's Bar and Bowl, route 1, resulted in two 7-year-old Outagamie County youths being held for overnight observation at Appleton Memorial Hospital and two older men charged with disorderly conduct and booked into the county jail.

Four county patrolmen were sent to break up the fracas about 11:45 p.m., inside and outside the establishment.

The two men, Norbert Skenandore, route 3, Seymour, and Charles Larsen, route 1, Oneida, both 19, made a brief appearance in County Court Branch 2 Monday and had their cases continued to Wednesday afternoon. Both are being held in the county jail on $200 bond.

According to a county investigator, disorderly conduct charges are pending against the juveniles, who were both released from the hospital Monday.

Would this bill wipe you out?

In Wisconsin, the cost of hospital care now averages about $70 a day. Multiply that by days or weeks and you come up with a debt that could wipe out almost anybody.

Why so expensive? Because modern hospital and medical care is a new kind of science. It brings advances undreamed of a decade ago. There's new and costly equipment to get you well faster. Plus more skilled personnel to take care of you. Two-thirds of a hospital's expenses are for payroll. And wages are going up to help hold trained people.

What's your logical protection? Blue Cross for hospital bills. Surgical Care Blue Shield for doctor bills. They're different. Unlike plans that pay only flat dollars a day. Blue Cross and Surgical Care Blue Shield offer benefits that expand to cover your bills.

If the Blue Cross and Surgical Care Blue Shield coverage concept makes sense to you, why take a chance with your home, farm and family? Call or write for full information today.
